The Times-Dispatch Pulling a Leg Apart Prohibition at Work Tired of Being Poor

Current Events

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1925, by Star Co.)

ANYWHERE IN this country, at Nome, Alaska, whither dog teams and airplanes race to fight disease, or in Los Angeles or Sarasota, where men race to buy real estate, the news is strange and interesting. This is written on the train, with the excellent Times-Dispatch of Richmond, Va., for inspiration and information.

MRS. ROBERT GARRETT, of Cumberland County, is candidate for court clerk. She may be elected by those that sympathize with her husband, formerly clerk, now spending five years in jail for shooting the Rev. E. E. Pierce.

SOUND AMPLIFIERS indicate that Floyd Collins still lives in his prison cave. Men violently interested in that case say, "It's too bad." Women are not content to say "It's too bad." Mrs. Emmons Blaine, one of the best women in Chicago, or anywhere else, after consulting with Dr. McArthur and obtaining the permission of the Collins family, sent two doctors by flying machine to save the man if possible. It was explained to her that the idea of having a doctor crawl into the cave to chloroform the man and cut off his leg was not sound. In such cramped space everybody concerned, including the doctor, would be rendered unconscious by the anaesthetic. The plan was to fasten a harness to the man's leg, and by main force pull the leg from under the heavy rock, the doctors treating it immediately. If it couldn't be pulled from under the rock, the leg would have been pulled apart at the knee or ankle joint and Collins would have felt no pain, thanks to local hypodermics in the hip.

Upheaval of the floor in the cave made it impossible for the doctors to reach Collins.

RETURNING TO Richmond Times-Dispatch, you read about the funeral of Judge Sims, president of the Virginia Supreme Court, dead by his own act. One man in the jaws of death struggles for life. Another, with life in his hand, throws it away.

NEXT COMES THIS: "Aged Pulaski man kills wife and shoots himself after drinking home concoction."

That's one side of prohibition. Another picture of prohibition is presented in the news from a Northern city. Boys and girls of the upper high school class are forbidden to go on driving parties.

The young boys, and even girls, carry bootleg whiskey with them. That was not heard of before prohibition came.

YOU LEARN ALSO that some prosperous men, with sons at college, send regular supplies of whiskey to those sons. They say: "I know that under present conditions my boy is going to drink, and I prefer to have him drink whiskey that won't kill him. So I keep him supplied."

YOU READ that savings bank deposits in the State of New York alone increased nearly three hundred million dollars in the past year, and are told that prohibition has a great deal to do with that. You wonder whether the increased savings deposits do enough good to counterbalance the effect of the bootleg whiskey.

MRS. F. W. WATERS killed herself, her daughter, 16, and her son, 14, by gas, in Washington. She wrote to her sisters: "I am so tired of being unhappy, so tired of struggling and being poor."

If all women "tired of being unhappy" should commit suicide, the population would drop considerably. It is the courage of women, defying poverty

'BOUDOIR BANDIT' IS IDENTIFIED BY ONE OF HIS GIRL VICTIMS

The Lone Wolf, Boston's boudoir bandit, who has terrorized the Back Bay apartment district during the past month, was positively identified today.

Identification was made at police headquarters by Miss Bessie Kelley, in whose apartment at No. 10 Museum road the bandit spent the night of January 5.

She recognized a Rogues' Gallery photograph of a man who has served at least one sentence and who is well known to the police.

Other women who have suffered at the hands of Boston's most obnoxious bandit were called to headquarters to confirm, if possible, Miss Kelley's identification.

Shortly before the identification was made a woman in an apartment at No. 20 Queensbury street called the attention of the police to a suspicious character who had been loitering nearby. The officers started after the man, who fled and vanished into another building.

PETTY THIEVES ON JOB.

This is the first time since the Lone Wolf began his operations early in January, binding and gagging women, attacking and robbing them, that the police have had any definite information concerning his identity.

Despite the presence in the Back Bay of a swarm of plain clothes officers the bandit is believed to have perpetrated the latest spectacular apartment house break in the suits of Miss Nellie M. Wilder, at No. 17 Garrison street.

While search for the "Lone Wolf" was being pushed by the police petty thieves were unusually active in the city.

Although the apartment bandit se-

SYNTHETIC HORSE FOR ECONOMY CAL

Washington, Feb. 11.—President Coolidge, oftentimes described as a man without a hobby, really has one which in a literal sense he rides daily. It is an electrical apparatus in the nature of a hobby horse, so arranged that the operator receives the same exercise he would if mounted on a spir tidehunter.

Set up in the President's dressing room, it is managed by push-buttons, which determine whether it shall go through the movements of a canter, a gallop or merely a trot.

Mr. Coolidge eschewed horseback riding on a real horse from the White House stables early in his administration, but uses the mechanical steed two or three times daily as a form of exercise to supplant his twice-daily walks.

The mechanism recently broke down, but without cacident to its distinguished rider, and a veterinarian in the form of an electrician was called in t orespecribe for it. Since then it has been going through its workouts regularly.

DYING WALTHAM MAN SAYS 'SHE SHOT ME'

Thomas W. Cox, twenty-four years old, No. 13 Derby street, Waltham, an engineer employed at the plant of the Edison Electric Company, was probably fatally wounded today during a shooting affray at the home of Charles Pettibone of No. 13 Calvary street, Waltham.

When arraigned before Judge Gibbs in Waltham Court Pettibone was held in $10,000 bonds on a charge of assault with intent to murder. James F. Laughlin of No. 17 Center street, Waltham, was held in $300 as a material witness.

According to Mrs. Pettibone, Cox and Laughlin went to her home demanding that they be admitted and allowed to buy liquor. She told them to go away and threw hot water on the mfrom an upstairs window, she said, but they persisted in beating the door, finally breaking a window in it.

SAW COX STAGGER.

According to McLaughlin's story, he, in company with Cox, went to the Pettibone home early today to

SENATE COMMITTEE SWITCHES P. O. BILLS

Washington, Feb. 11.—The Senate Post Office Committee today voted to substitute the Senate postal pay and rate increase bill for the measure passed yesterday by the House.

Approval of this action by the Senate would force a conference between the House and the Senate on the differences between the two bills, which vary considerably on the proposed rate increases. The Senate bill also would make the pay advances effective as of July 1, 1924, instead of January 1, 1925, as in the House measure.

ROOM WRECKED BY 'LONE WOLF'

Photo shows how elusive "boudoir bandit" played role of vandal when he looted the apartment of Miss Nellie Wilder, Suite 7, No. 17 Garrison street, Back Bay. Enraged by his small haul the thief wantonly smashed furniture and shattered a door. Finger-print clews may lead to his arrest. Inset is Miss Wilder, victim of the crook's latest outrage. Detectives were passing the house while the bandit ransacked the Wilder suite.

RESCUERS MAY HIT TUNNEL TO COLLINS AT ANY MOMENT

Cave City, Ky., Feb. 11 (A.P.).—"We apear to ve very close. I believe we will get Floyd Collins out of the cave alive," said Dr. H. T. Carmichael today.

For the first time the amplifier tests across the electric light wire leading down to Collins failed today to record anything in the head phones.

The last successful test at midnight repeated the "breathing" sounds at the regular rate of eighteen per minute, but H. G. Lane, manager of the electric apparatus at the cave, said the test indicated the globe was out of the socket or burned out.

Twenty hours was given by rescuers, at 9 a. m. As the maximum time they expected to take to extricate Collins. They said that if was not out of the hole in that time they would be disappointed. They were hopeful of reaching Collins much sooner, and avowed it might come any minute. The shaft is now forty-two feet deep.

WOOD'S SON QUITS WOOLEN CO. JOB

Cornelius Agnew Wood, son of William M. Wood, founder and former president of the American Woolen Company, has tendered his resignation as vice-president of that organization, it became known today.

Wood's only explanation of his resignation was that he had "higher ambitions."

He said he submitted the resignation January 1, but that the board of directors had not yet taken action on it. He will retain his place on the board of directors, he added.

William M. Wood resigned as president of the company December 20 last. He gave ill health as the reason for his withdrawal. Andrew G. Pierce of New Bedford was appointed his successor. At that time it was announced Cornelius A. Wood would continue with the company as vice-president and director.

News of the younger Wood's resignation, coming on the heels of his father's withdrawal as head of the organization, came as a surprise to textile and financial circles. It

Shot Halts Rum Boat

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 11.—The ocean-going tug Lorraine Rita, with 3,000 cases of liquor and a crew of twelve men, was brought into port today by a patrol boat of the dry navy after being halted by a shot off Seagirt.

3 IN RUM CASE, HELD ON PERJURY CHARGE

Judge Lowell in United States District Court today held Louis Zolner of No. 85 Blossom street, Chelsea; Morris Horwitz of No. 68 Everett street and John Turco of Sunnyside Farm, Medford, for the Grand Jury on perjury charges. A jury had brought in a verdict of guilty of moonshining against them and Angelo Caramandea of No. 153 Granite street, Braintree. Horwitz was sentenced to six months, said to be the longest sentence imposed for a liquor charge. The cases grew out of a raid at the Sunnyside Farm.

HULTMAN FEARS STRIKES BY TENANTS

Rent strikes and serious public disorders were today predicted by Chairman Eugene C. Hultman of the Commission on the Necessaries of Life, unless the Emergency Rent and Housing Laws are continued.

In a statement to the Legislative Committee on Judiciary, he declared that many real estate dealers are opposed to having the laws continue in force after May 1.

MAINE HOTEL BURNS; FOG BALKS FIREMEN

Portland, Me., Feb. 11—Fire which swept the old Knickerbocker Hotel, summer resort on Peak's Island in the harbor, today menaced many cottages in the immediate vicinity. Fire boats and firemen from this city were handicapped in reaching the fire by a heavy fog that is menacing all local shipping.

Although there is no direct line of communication between the island and the mainland, it is known that deep snows in the unopened roads on the island have hindered the firemen in several attempts to get lines to the blaze and it is thought the hotel has been destroyed.

BELIEVE JARDINE WILL GET CABINET POST

Washington, Feb. 11.—Although the White House withheld comment, administration officials elsewhere indicated a belief today that William M. Jardine of Kansas had been decided on by President Coolidge for Secretary of Agriculture.

The Kansas delegation in Congress, which once endorsed J. J. Mohler, also of Kansas, for the post met and changed its support to Mr. Jardine. Members of the delegation have been in constant consultation with Mr. Coolidge, but they declined to say whether they had definite information as to his decision.

C. F. HOVEY COMPANY ELECTS DIRECTORS

night, turned to snow. A biting wind added to the discomfort of those gathered in the cave.

Finding of Crickets Gives Rescuers Hope

Cave City, Feb. 11 (I.N.S.).—Only a sliver of earth today separated Floyd Collins, still living according to recurrent radio tests and long distance physical examinations, from the men frantically digging after the prisoner of Sand Cave, according to various findings in the shaft.

The banana oil tests, made three times by Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, bore pertinent results when the odor was detected by workers in the bottom of the shaft. This, followed by the finding of cave crickets, prompted official prediction that the mystery of Sand Cave would find solution shortly.

When the diamond drill tests were taken, a four-foot drop was indicated at the twenty-six foot level. This fissure was expected to appear as the larger opening, but it failed to materialize. Geologists explained, however, that due to the construction of this district and the haphazard way the rocks are piled, a drop might appear anywhere.

Because of the likelihood of striking a cavern of proportion when gravel appeared and muck and slime began to disappear in the bottom of the shaft, "Dig and Dump" Carmichael, director of operations, said:

"We are expecting to strike a cavern leading to that boy down there most any time."

Carmichael's sobriquet was earned for him by his uniform exhortation to all new workers that to save Collins everybody must "dig and dump."

Cleft in Shaft Is Found by Diggers

Cave City, Feb. 11.—The picks of rescue crews, digging frantically to reache Floyd Collins, trapped for twelve days in his underground prison were ringing on the roof of the cavern today. Gangs, working in relays, dug through a stratum of dry sand, said by engineers to lie directly on top of the limestone top of the cavern.

A small cleft in the side of the shaft toward the north, or Sand Cave side, was discovered at 28½ feet, indicating that the underground honeycomb section was near at hand. The sandy layer at the bottom of the shaft was fairly dry, compared to the muck in which the diggers have been working.

Barring infection or gangrene from his cramped 12-day imprisonment, the physicians' hopes are strong that they can save him if he is reached soon. Every possible emergency need of the physician's has been prepared in the Red Cross tent, operating room, for transfusion, amputation or whatever his condition indicates.

A stretcher-like appliance to raise Collins through the shaft has been constructed.

Declare Spring Formed Collins Tunnel

Cave City, Ky., Feb. 11.—The ravine in which the mouth of Sand Cave is located was once a cavern and has collapsed, within the memory of the older settlers in this region, it was learned today from F. H. Vance.

The mouth of the cavern then was about 200 feet down the ravine. Vance says when he was ten he used to go to the cavern for spring water.

The present sand cave is supposed to be a drain formed by the waters of this spring.

Feeding of Prisoner Told at Military Probe

Cave City, Ky., Feb. 11 (A.P.).—Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, zoologist of the University of Kentucky, was recalled to the stand at the military court of inquiry today.

"County Agent Horning said as late as midnight a week ago Monday that Floyd Collins had stated that Johnny Gerald was the last man to see him at that time and also that Homer Collins had seen him and fed him prior to Gerald's visit," Dr. Funkhouser said.

Lieutenant Ben Wells, Gerald and another man went into the cave shortly after midnight a week ago Tuesday morning and stayed until 6.30, feeding the prisoner at that time, he continued.

Dr. Funkhouser said that M. Doyle went into the hole as a relay man, but that because of his age the others would not allow him to go to the front.

Tuesday afternoon C. L. Maddox and a Mr. Craddock and possibly others, went into the cave, according to Dr. Funkhouser's notes.

PILOT KILLED WHEN FRENCH PLANE FALLS

Niamey, French West Africa, Feb 11 (A.P.)—The second plane of the French air mission to Lake Tchad, Africa, crashed on taking off here today and Sergeant Vandaele, the pilot, was killed. Colonel Vuillemin, commanding the plane, Captain Dagneux and Sergeant Knecht were injured.

tion to continue them, the laws will automatically become ineffective.

In support of his contention Chairman Hultman submitted replies to questionnaires sent to real estate dealers.

"If these laws are allowed to lapse this Spring," he declared, "the old method used by unscrupulous speculators and landlords of pitting tenants out of their homes by means of straw leases in forty-eight hours will again become prevalent."

He reviewed the work of the commission since the war, saying it was found necessary to restrain unjustifiable demands on the part of the landlords.

He told the committee there is an extreme shortage of tenements selling around $40 a month. The result is suffering, colonization of families and other evils. This $40 group, he said, composes the great majority of tenants, and they are least able to legally protect themselves from harsh and abusive treatment by greedy or irresponsible landlords.

SCORES PROFITEERS.

"Their condition," said he, "represents a real menace to the peace and welfare of many of our larger communities, in which 80 per cent. of the families are tenants."

He stated that new construction has furnished little relief to this class of tenants.

Commissioner Hultman also stated that during the last five years speculators have made large profits trading in dwellings. The speculators' activities, he said, have resulted in a large apparent increase of values in old dwellings. Speculation in high-priced property is practically over.

He stated the commission makes no prediction as to when relief will come for the $40 tenants, but not before May 1, 1926, at least.

also added some weight to the rumor already in circulation that heavy losses for the fiscal year would be reported to stockholders in the company next month.

Another effect of the withdrawal of the Wood family from active management of the company would be the complete change in management of Edgewood Village, it was said. The "Model Village," as it was known, was built by the elder Wood to furnish homes for his employes.

Cornelius Wood's first connection with the great textile organization was in September, 1918, when he went to work as an apprentice hand, sorting wool. He received $10 for his first week's pay.

TO SAVE POULTRY, FOLLOW THESE "DON'TS"

Danvers, Feb. 11.—Essex county's $1,000,000 poultry business is in danger. The Essex Agricultural School has assigned A. W. Doolittle, an instructor at the school, to devote his time to the study of the so-called European plague. The trustees have issued the following "Don'ts":

Don't bring any new birds into your flock without looking them over first.

Don't allow anyone but yourself or your regular help visit your poultry houses.

Don't visit other plants.

Don't allow poultry peddlers on your place.

Don't fail to use more than ordinary sanitary precautions.

Don't use second-hand grain bags, poultry crates or egg cases. Sparrows and pigeons may be a source of contagion.

OFFICIALS APOLOGIZE TO FORMER DRY AGENT

Washington, Feb. 11.—A formal apology has been extended by prohibition officials here to Ralph E. Ruby, a former prohibition agent, for the erroneous announcement yesterday that Ruby's home had been raided and alleged liquor seized. The informant who made the purchase on the basis of which the raid was made later said a mistake in identification had been made and that Ruby had no part in it.

HUNT FOR LONE WOLF INCREASES CRIME HERE

cured only $90 in cash, automobile thieves, prowlers and pickpockets during the past twenty-four hours cleaned up thousands of dollars in property, money and jewelry.

The Garrison street break, occurring in broad daylight, was the boldest yet reported, and is believed to have been a final act of defiance on the part of the "Lone Wolf."

FINGERPRINTS ARE CLUE.

A coincidental feature is the fact that Miss Wilder, a stenographer, was at one time employed with Miss Martha A. Briggs, who was bound, gagged and robbed by the Lone Wolf in her apartment at No. 35 Queensbury street the night of February 5.

Miss Wilder was not at home at the time of the break, but police say the apartment block was filled with tenants and pedestrians were constantly passing outside.

Yet no one heard any strange noises, as far as could be learned, and the break was not discovered until Miss Wilder returned last night at 7.30 after having finished her work at the Public Library, where she is employed.

The apartment, according to Miss Wilder, was practically wrecked, with clothing, furniture, and books scattered about the floors. A phonograph was taken apart, apparently in the belief that money was secreted inside.

In a drawer Miss Wilder had $70 in bills, which she had saved to pay the funeral expenses of her mother, who died recently. This was taken by the thief, together with $10 in another envelope, and an old purse containing $4.50, all treasured memento of her mother's.

A quantity of unmarked silver, an old-fashioned brooch, also cherished because it was the property of the late Mrs. Wilder, and a silver watch, which was out of order, were also taken.

"I feel worse about the pocketbook than anything else," said Miss Wilder today. "It was one of the few things I had to remind me of my mother. She put it under her pillow just before she died and I remember joking to asking her if she was afraid of thieves."

Miss Wilder said she usually returns to her apartment during the afternoon and started home yesterday, but changed her mind and went to a motion picture theatre.

It is believed possible the "Lone Wolf" knew of her habits and wrecked the apartment in a rage when she failed to appear.

15 AUTOS ARE STOLEN.

In the meantime during the past twenty-four hours the police have received complaints of the larceny of fifteen automobiles, a number of persons reported their pocketbooks picked, and several stores, offices and homes were entered and robbed.

The office of Pasquale Russo in the Kimball Building, Tremont street, was robbed of $20. Alfred Cobb, who has an office in the State Street Trust Building, reported it was entered and railroad tickets and clothing taken. The tailor shop of Weldon Munros, No. 854 Shawmut avenue, lost several suits of clothes, and a woman's dress.

Elna Hillen of No. 18 New Heath street, Roxbury, reported she was robbed of a watch at No. 1107 Columbus avenue. Israel Young of No. 284 Harrison avenue lost six bundles of ticking for mattress valued at $150 and a racer sled, worth $6.50.

PICKPOCKETS ARE BUSY.

Maud Butterfield of Concord, N. H., while in a department store was robbed of $24. Margaret Whittier of No. 46 Dwight street, South End, lost her pocketbook in the same way. Helen Keller of No. 7 Granite street, Waverly, R. L. reported her pocket was picked in a store, her loss being $10. Betty Bordors of No. 39 Hennenway street lost a purse containing a ring on Boston Common through pickpockets.

At No. 320 Harrison avenue four dozen silk stockings valued at $70, sweaters and other articles valued at $13, pearls valued at $125, and $6 in cash were stolen.

Thieves entered Suite 406 at No. 14 Ivy street and took pearl beads, a wrist watch, a gold wedding ring marked "C. H. J. to P. M. W.," a woman's cameo ring and red beads, all valued at $75. A guest in the Quincy House was robbed of an Elgin watch, and three persons lost a total of $40 at the hands of pickpockets in Andrew Square terminal.

Burglars Loot Two More Malden Stores

Malden is alarmed today by a recurrence of the epidemic of burglaries of small stores in which many grocerie and drug stores have been looted.

Burglars broke into two chain grocery stores in Malden today, carting away goods valued at several thousand dollars.

One break was at the Atlantic & Pacific store at Bryant street and Eastern avenue, the other at the Economy Grocery Company store on Lebanon street, near Swain's Pond avenue.

At both stores tubs of butter and lard, large quantities of canned goods and other bulky merchandise were taken, the burglars apparently operating with the aid of an automobile truck. The register was also robbed at the Economy store.

FOG, STEPS ON TRACK, IS HURLED 15 FEET

Salem, Feb. 11.—The fog today almost cost Edward Leger, twenty-two years old, of No. 63 Palmer street, his life. Leger stopped under the gates at the Salem depot, directly in front of a Marblehead bound train, which emerged from the fog bank before he had time to get off the track. Although thrown about fifteen feet by the locomotive, it was said at the Salem Hospital Leger is not seriously injured.

SNOWSTORM IMPEDES SERUM RACE TO NOME

Ruby, Alaska, Feb. 11 (A.P.).—A blinding snowstorm raging in the Yukon Valley has reduced the speed of relay dog teams carrying 480,000 units of diphtheria anti-toxin to Nome, from ten to less than six miles an hour. Territorial Representatives Elliott and Ralph Lomen, reindeer owner, were reported en route to Seattle via Juneau. They were the first persons to leave Nome since the start of the diphtheria epidemic January 27.

Record of Lone Wolf for Past Month

HERE is the police record of the operations of the "Lone Wolf" during the past month. It credits him only with jobs in which he boasted of his work.

JANUARY 5—Bound and gagged Miss Bessie Kelley, film artist, in her apartment, No. 16 Museum road, Back Bay, chatted with her, took a nap and left in the morning with jewelry.

JANUARY 17—Held up Lieutenant Charles R. Mize, U. S. A., in his mother's apartment, Suite 7, No. 46 Peterboro street, Back Bay, took jewelry valued at $100, locked the officer in a closet and escaped.

JANUARY 20—Bound and gagged Miss Agnes E. Prescott, 50 years, and her niece, Miss Catherine DeVoll, in Suite 5, No. 15 Queensbury street, Back Bay. Got himself a lunch, chatted with Miss DeVoll and left in the morning with two fur coats, $60 and jewelry.

FEBRUARY 5—Bound and gagged Miss Martha A. Briggs, 40 years old, in her apartment No. 15 Queensbury street, knocked her unconscious with a revolver butt, lunched and left in the morning with a fur coat, clothing, jewelry and cash.

Other jobs the police are investigating which may be laid to the "Lone Wolf" were:

FEBRUARY 5—Mildred E. Harwood, 32-year-old shoe model, knocked unconscious in her apartment, Suite 7, No. 719 Huntington avenue, bound, gagged and robbed of jewelry.

FEBRUARY 6—Alice Whiteside, 22-year-old model, discovered a man prying the door of her apartment at No. 51 Queensbury street and frightened him away with her screams.

FEBRUARY 10—Apartment of Nellie M. Wilder, Suite 7, No. 17 Garrison street, entered in her absence, ransacked and $90 taken.

STORM ON WAY, ACCOMPANIED BY COLD WAVE

Storm warnings were ordered raised from Delaware breakwater to Eastport, Me., today.

A cold wave of moderate intensity is also on tap for Boston and vicinity, accompanied by snow and north-west gales, probably reaching here Thursday morning, according to the local forecasters.

There is a possibility, according to the weather bureau, that the disturbance now centering in Southern Pennsylvania and Northern West Virginia may pass out the St. Lawrence valley without visiting this section of New England.

Rain tonight, changing to snow; probably snow Thursday morning; much colder Thursday; strong southwest winds and gales changing to northwest tonight, is the forecast for Boston and vicinity.

GIRLS TRAP 7 MIDSHIPMEN WITH LIQUOR

Three Naval Academy Boys Dismissed; Four Others Under Surveillance

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 11.—Three midshipmen have been dismissed from the Naval Academy and four others face expulsion for "liquor escapades" it was announced today by the Navy Department.

The dismissals are said to be the result of the campaign to clean up Annapolis started several weeks ago by the church element of the town and aided by Miss Virginia Wilson and Mrs. Esther Coulbourne, volunteer "girl sleuths."

Investigation by the Navy Department followed a visit to Secretary of the Navy Wilbur a short time ago by a delegation of Annapolis ministers, headed by the Rev. H. Wilson Burgan, pastor of Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church. Secretary Wilbur was told that midshipmen were purchasing liquor at numerous "dives" in Annapolis.

Admiral Henry B. Wilson, superintendent of the academy, declared today that while bootleg liquor is easy to get in Annapolis he believed that only a few midshipmen avail themselves of the opportunity. He declared:

"The midshipmen know that the penalty of detection, which is almost certain, is dismissal and consequently few care to take the chance.

"I commend heartily the work of those striving to drive bootleggers out of business, which explains my reluctance to commend the Rev. Mr. Burgan."

Expulsion of the three midshipmen came in the wake of a big dance at the academy. Of the four listed to be dismissed, one was charged merely with possession and the other three were arrested in Annapolis when discovered in a room seated around a table with a bottle of whiskey before them.

WALTHAM ROW MAY RESULT IN DEATH

tell the Pettibones of an accident that Cox had figured in in the Pettibone yard a few days ago. Laughlin says that when Cox rang the bell at the Pettibone home Mrs. Pettibone came to the door and ordered them away. He says that he saw Mrs. Pettibone holding a gun, and that she had threatened to shoot if they did not go.

McLaughlin said that when he went the gun he fled from the house and started down the street. He then told the police that after he had run about 100 yards he heard three shots and saw Cox stagger from the piazza of the Pettibone house.

ALLEGE CONFESSION.

When the police arrived at the Pettibone home, in response to a call from neighbors they found a light burning in the hallway. The Pettibones were in bed apparently asleep. Cox was lying on the ground with blood streaming from the wound in his body. He was rushed to the Waltham Hospital, where little hope is held out for his recovery.

Pettibone, according to the police, immediately confessed. He refused to tell the officers what the argument was over, but he insisted that his wife had nothing to do with the shooting other than to order the pair from the house.

He denied that his wife had the gun at all and says that he shot at Cox from an upstairs window as Cox was leaving the house. Pettibone said that he fired three shots after Cox had refused to obey the warning of his wife.

INDIANS IN WAR COUNCIL OVER KILLING OF BRAVE

Albuquerque, N. M., Feb. 11.—Signs of a war council by Navajo Indians in reprisal for the death of a tribesman is awaited beyond the borders of the reservation in the New Mexican hills following seventy-five miles from Albuquerque. Futile attempts have been made to communicate with the trading post nearest the scene where 200 braves refused to yield the body of the slain Navajo to a coroner's jury. The Indian was shot in a struggle with a constable who sought to arrest him for moving a fence from a homesteader's tract.

JACK LONDON'S DAUGHTER WINS DIVORCE AND SON

Oakland, Cal., Feb. 11.—Joan London Abbott, daughter of the late Jack London, author, has been granted a divorce from Park Abbott. A three-year-old son, Park London Abbott, was given to the mother. The differences arose over Mrs. Abbott's desire to retain the name London and to give her child that name, according to the complaint.

'LORD ASHBURTON,' CROOK, IS ROBBED

Boston Doctor Draws Anti-Toxin From Own Body

NOTORIOUS CHEATER IS CHEATED

"Lord Ashburton" Relieved of Money and Gems in Boston

The story of William Griffis, notorious confidence man and gambler, known to the police of this country and Europe as Lord Ashburton, a "king of grafters," was robbed of $1,500 in Boston, was learned by the Boston Evening American today.

Not the least astounding part of the recital is the statement that Griffis, now eighty-two years old, came to Boston to work with a band of local blackmailers known as the "camera gang," and turned down their proposition as being too dangerous.

He said he came to Boston to meet two leaders of a blackmail band now operating in this city. He was to play the part of the "come-on" for prospective rich victims. He refused to name members of the gang.

He said that after a conference he had turned down their offer as being too dangerous, and returned to his own hotel.

PAID FOR DRINKS.

Feeling the need of a drink, the man whose wine bills mounted into the thousands in the old days, approached a taxi driver outside his hotel in search of a quart of ~~scotch~~.

The liquor was procured and then he was taken on a tour of the city, later returning to his hotel. The following morning, having consumed all the liquor, he again sought out the friendly taxi man, and inquired if he knew a woman with whom Griffis once was acquainted. In a short time "Lord Ashburton" was ushered into a Back Bay apartment.

The woman apparently failed to recognize him, and he said he bought many drinks. At that time he said he had about $600 or $700 in bills of large denomination, a platinum and gold watch worth $300, a diamond studded crescent stickpin and a solitaire diamond, in all about $800 worth of jewelry.

GIRLS TOOK MONEY.

Later, he told Inspector Burke, the taxicab driver introduced him to a man, who wanted to show Griffis a "real place." Was taken to another Back Bay apartment. Liquor was procured. Round followed round, Lord Ashburton paying, and in the afternoon two young women appeared.

Griffis eventually pulled himself together and left, but discovered he had lost a valuable letter and returned for it. More liquor was procured, and the party at length was transferred to a South End hotel.

Griffis was put to bed, and despite his intoxication, placed his roll of money and jewelry under his pillow. One of the girls snatched it, and when he attempted to get it back two men appeared, and held him until the girls escaped, with all his valuables.

3 MONTHS FOR DRIVER IN "PAPER" ACCIDENT

Joseph A. McLaughlin, driver of the truck from which a huge roll of paper skidded into Park street subway, injuring several persons, was today sentenced by Judge Parmenter to serve three months in the House of Correction. McLaughlin, who is married and lives at No. 747 Revere street, Revere, was found guilty of operating while under the influence of liquor, endangering the life and safety of the public and of drunkenness. He was given a month on each of the three complaints, appealed and furnished bail.

U. S. TO URGE GERMAN ASSENT TO TREATY

Washington, Feb. 11.—Assent of the German government to the reservations attached by the Senate to the commercial treaty between the United States and Germany will be sought immediately by the State Department. The Senate's reservation on the immigration and shipping clauses have met with State Department approval, and President Coolidge has authorized the transmission of the convention as approved by the Senate to the Berlin government.

CIRCUS GOES TO SICK KIDDIES

CRIPPLE KIDDIES MADE HAPPY BY CLOWNS

Little gurgles of excited laughter. Tiny frail hands reaching out to touch the gay robes of the clowns.

The Boston Evening American through the kindness of Fred Doherty of the Bowdoin Square Theatre, was able to arrange for the Clown Band to go to the Children's Hospital to bring a ray of joy to the little shut-ins.

"Come and see me," begged a weak little voice of one of the funmakers. "Me next—me next," echoed from all parts of the ward.

And the kindly clown went, holding out a bright colored ball to a little lad swathed in bandages, able to move only one hand a bit. But that was enough for him to hold the gay ball and even press it to see the ears wag.

In the next cot lay a little girl not able to move even a hand, but her bright eyes were fixed on the toy.

If she could only hold it—just for a minute.

But that was impossible, so Toto went to her and showed her how it worked, and that was almost as good.

From cot to cot the clowns went, joking, laughing stopping every now and then to play a tune on the funny looking instruments.

Wistful eyes followed them as they left one ward for another.

"Will they ever be able to get the paint off their faces?" came anxiously from one little girl.

The nurses and doctors enjoyed the fun every bit as much as the kiddies.

"This is an event in their lives," said a young nurse. "They will talk about it for days and days."

The clowns who are from Barton's Circus enjoyed themselves hugely in giving an hour of happiness to the kiddies.

"Sure we had to get up early," said Gilbert Everett, "But we like to do it for the youngsters."

B. U. LAW GROUP TO HONOR DEAN BIGELOW

Tribute to the memory of Dr. Melville Madison Bigelow, former dean of the Boston University School of Law and internationally known jurist and legal philosopher, is being planned by the Bigelow Association of Masters of Laws in co-operation with the School of Law alumni.

The memorial will be a portrait of Dr. Bigelow which will be hung in the School of Law building on Ashburton place. At the same time, Homer Albers, present dean of the school, will be honored by alumni with a presentation of his portrait.

DOUGLASS TO SPEAK ON BLOWING UP OF THE MAINE

The blowing up of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor will be commemorated at a mass meeting in Faneuil Hall on Sunday evening. The meeting will be under the direction of the Boston Municipal Council, United Spanish War Veterans. An address will be delivered by Congressman-elect John J. Douglass of East Boston, an honorary member of the G. A. R.

ONE MAN DYING, 14 RESCUED, AT 2 FIRES

One man was probably fatally burned, another overcome by smoke but rescued, and fourteen persons driven to the streets today by two Boston fires.

Charles Vail, thirty-three years old, had just lighted an oil heater in his room at No. 1288 Dorchester avenue, when it exploded. He was instantly covered with blazing oil. Realizing his plight Vail wrapped himself in bed clothing in an effort to stifle the blanket of flames which enveloped him. He was severely burned about the face, arms and head and at the City Hospital he is said to be in a critical condition.

Two other families were driven from the building by the fire started in Vail's room. The fire department extinguished the blaze after damage estimated at $200 had been incurred.

Smoke from a fire believed started by a cigaret overcame Patrick Spellman in a lodging house at No. 8 Warrenton street, South End. He was found unconscious in bed. Ladderman Welsam of Ladder Company 17 carried Spellman to safety. He was treated at the City Hospital. The fire was quickly extinguished and damage was slight.

U. S. OFFICIAL NEAR DEATH IN UPRISING

Prague, Czecho-Slovakia, Feb. 11.—Ernest Power, secretary of the United States consulate here, escaped injury when a bullet fired at him during a Communist demonstration against high prices went wild, it was learned today. One woman was killed and several persons were injured during the demonstration.

SPURNS OFFER TO RETURN HIS STOLEN $3,200

A delegation of Boston bootleggers is reported by Thomas Kearns of Taunton to have offered to restore to him $3,200 in cash and two diamond rings taken from him when he was beaten and robbed by armed hijackers at his home on South street, Raynham, Saturday night.

The terms suggested were that he drop the case and decline to appear against John Rodman of Boston, under arrest in connection with the affair.

Kearns was so bitter that he scorned the offer. He said the case was in the hands of the State police and would be prosecuted.

Rodman was captured at the point of a shotgun by a neighbor of Kearns. A revolver found in the Kearns yard is thought by the police to have been dropped by one of the hijackers.

WHEELER GRAND JURY HEARS EX-CONGRESSMAN

Washington, Feb. 11.—Tom Stout, a former member of the House and newspaper publisher of Lewistown, Montana, was one of the witnesses here today to testify at the new Grand Jury proceedings in the case of Senator Wheeler of Montana and others. Before the Senate committee which investigated the original Montana indictment of the Senator, Stout testified that at the request of Gordon Campbell he had notified Wheeler that Campbell wished to retain a lawyer to take care of litigation in Montana courts. Out of this association between Wheeler and Campbell the indictment grew.

CHILDREN ARE SAVED FROM DEADLY FEVER

By GRACE DesCHAMPS

Out of test tubes, charts, culture plates and hypodermic syringes comes occasionally a story.

Out of serums and anti-toxins can even be conjured a youngster's smile.

Down in the South End and the North End and over on Beacon street, for instance, are perfectly good smiles running 'round on the faces of perfectly good kids—smiles that came from anti-toxin.

And the anti-toxin came from the arm and the courage of a man who thinks it's a joke.

The man who thinks it's funny to use himself for a private anti-toxin factory is Dr. Edwin G. Place, head of the contagious department of the Boston City Hospital.

Dr. Place, whose name is written into the annals of the fight between modern medicine and contagious diseases, may take a walk through any section of the city and see youngsters whose release from the hot fingers of fever and cold ones of death was bargained for with his own blood.

DOCTOR LAUGHS.

"Pooh pooh pooh!" exclaimed Dr. Place, also "Pshaw!"

And then he laughed.

"This isn't news," he explained finally. "I always thought a news story was one where a man bit a dog."

Later he admitted the facts. He admitted that he used himself regularly for a "control" and that "when it was absolutely necessary" he shot himself full of scarlet fever streptococci (mildly name for fever bugs) so that his body might produce the neutralizing fluid which meant life to some youngster raving in delirium.

"But, sakes' alive!" said Place. "That's nothing!"

WELL IMMUNIZED.

So highly immunized has he become, that Dr. Place declares he suffers none of the symptoms of the disease which ordinarily occur when one admits into one's blood stream the serum from scarlet fever.

And so, when some youngster's temperature is shooting to 105 deg. and his face is crimson with fever, Dr. Place calls his obedient anti-toxin producing mechanism into service and prepares the neutralizing fluid which shares the odds of the fight with two persons instead of one. In five hours the patient's temperature is normal and he is inquiring what it's all about.

"Dramatic! Isn't it?" exclaimed Dr. Place, when he had made the description impersonal, carefully excluding himself from the story.

"Isn't it dramatic when someone else can step in and share the fight with the patient? When the patient's strength is gone and his resistance is too feeble to be able to produce the anti-bodies necessary to battle the disease—to have someone else able to produce them for him!"

BLAZED TRAIL.

Following carefully the tracks of Dr. Dochez and the Doctors Dick, who have blazed the trail to the final triumph over scarlet fever, Dr. Place has won a steady victory against the disease, locally, for the past year.

A year of successes at the City Hospital, to which both nurses and doctors have made their contribution, has permanently installed there the methods of the Dicks and Dochez for identifying, immunizing against, and finally, conquering the disease.

Through the efforts of Dr. Alphonse Dochez of New York, the anti-toxin for scarlet fever may be prepared through the use of horses when human sources are not available.

The South Department is now prepared to place at the disposal of the public its entire facilities for testing and immunizing against scarlet fever.

Anyone who wishes to take out life insurance against scarlet fever has only to go over to the South Department of the City Hospital.

And there's no charge.

Tenor Leaves New Orleans

New Orleans, Feb. 11.—John McCormack, the tenor, who was forced to postpone the remainder of his February engagements because of a slight attack of the grippe, left here today.

READING SEEKING POLITICAL CANDIDATES

With the last hour for filing nomination papers in Reading 5 p. m. Friday, there are not enough candidates in sight to fill the several vacancies which are occurring at town boards this year.

Insurance for Public Against Diseases

After a year's work with the famous Dick and Dochez methods of immunization and treatment of scarlet fever, the Boston City Hospital announces its facilities for immunization open to the public.

Life insurance against scarlet fever may be obtained free of charge at the South Department of the City Hospital.

The Dick test for susceptibility to the disease and the immunization treatment may be obtained under expert physicians. The immunization treatment consists of a weekly inoculation for two or three weeks.

Physicians are also advised that the Dochez serum for scarlet fever is available.

PHONE AUDITOR SAYS MONEY COMES SLOWLY

Most Customers Are Billed in Arrears, Moore Declares at Rate Hearing

The New England Telephone Company is very kind to its customers, according to the testimony of General Auditor Frederic E. Moore at the rate hearing before the Public Utilities Commission upon petition of the company to boost its rates $12,000,000 annually in Massachusetts.

According to Mr. Moore the company does not charge its customers in advance for service. It waits until after they have had service before charging them for it, with the exception of the Attleboro district. There, because of custom, the company charges in advance, combining the method of its predecessor, the Providence Telephone Company.

"COLLECTIONS SLOW."

Mr. Moore explained that the New England Company bills most of its customers in arrears and collects more slowly than any company in the country. He said many companies charge in advance.

According to Mr. Moore the New England Telephone dollar is spent as follows: Wages, 47 cents; depreciation, 18 cents; dividend, 7 37-100 cents; interest, 4 93-100; taxes, $4.96; license contract, 4 4-10; outdoor expenses, 1 45-100; insurance, accidents and damages, 1 cent; advertising, 26-100; general officers' salaries, 14-100 cents. The item for depreciation will probably be vigorously attacked, as the Edison Light Company and Boston Elevated are said to charge off much less.

ESTIMATES REVENUE.

Mr. Moore testified that if the New England Company is granted the increases asked the revenue for the entire system next year will be $69,720,000 and for Massachusetts, $52,878,000.

He said the net revenue in 1926 on the same basis would be $15,162,000 for the entire system and $11,429,000 for Massachusetts. These figures would show a return of 6.196 per cent. for the system on fair valuation of property and 6.900 for Massachusetts. President Matt B. Jones has already testified he believed the company should be permitted to earn eight per cent. on a fair valuation of its property.

BUDGET SYSTEM DEMANDED FOR CLOTHIERS

N. E. Association Head Also Urges Less Emphasis on the Selling Prices

"To much stress has been placed on the selling price instead of emphasizing the merchandise," said President J. C. Mandelson in remarks at the formal opening of the 9th annual convention of the New England Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers in the new Boston Chamber of Commerce Building today.

"The past year," he continued, "has been an unsatisfactory one, both as to weather and business conditions. Too many of us have been running our business on the hit and miss plan. We must, I believe, place more emphasis on budgeting and stock control."

J. E. Stevens of South Norwalk, Ct., national director of the association, said that budgeting does not mean that the merchant will buy less goods, but will purchase exactly the amount he will actually be able to sell. In this way, he said, dead stock would not pile up on the shelves and prove a loss both to the wholesaler and the retailer.

David Segill of the New York Sample Shop, New Britain, and Bert Katten of A. Katten & Sons, Hartford, were among the speakers.

All urged fellow merchants to install the budget system, saying that no retailer can afford to be without it, and quoted figures to show that it saved and made money for them. An outstanding advantage, they said was that it eliminates all guess work and the business man could at all times check up on his progress.

Katharine Hobson's Coming Out Party at Hotel Somerset Jolly Affair

Mother's Dinner to Ushers, Also in Same Hostelry, Furnished Merry Prelude; Galaxy of Buds Grace Notable Occasion

By Betty Alden

EVERYONE agrees that Katharine Hobson's coming out party at the Hotel Somerset last evening was one of the very jolliest of late season affairs, and leaves a lovely impression on the page of February 10 in the current chronicle of social history.

IT WAS a Saint Valentine's party, and the enormous scarlet hearts with their Cupid's arrows hanging from the chandeliers and gleaming brightly against festoons of lacy Spanish moss and laurel gave truly the atmosphere of February's special Saint's Day.

THE SAME PIERCED-HEART motif was carried out for the decorations at the dinner which Mrs. A. C. G. Hobson gave for the ushers and a number of the young girls. This was also at the Hotel Somerset and was a merry prelude to the dance itself.

MRS. HOBSON WORE a gown of gold cloth, with just the merest suggestion of rose-pink in its coloring, and there were panels of black velvet. The bodice gown was of silver lace over a sheath of white of softly gleaming lights and very effective with her brunette coloring.

THERE WAS A GALAXY of lovely buds in attendance. Kathleen Rotch, in cloth of gold shot through with Oriental colors; Anne Tudor, in white, and Olivia Howard, in black net with gay green scroll-like figures, were a notable trio.

MISS HOWARD, whose engagement brought a large thrill to the world of buds, is sailing soon for Switzerland, there to celebrate her marriage to Robert Raymond, and while there is every possibility that Kathleen Rotch and Anne Tudor may sail too, and act as bridesmaids for the ceremonial on April 7.

ELIZABETH PATTERSON, in dark green velvet with pearl garniture swinging from the shoulders, Elizabeth Fenno in white satin and tulle—very effective with her brilliant coloring, and Sally Dexter, in black taffeta with antique lace, were notable in the throng.

INDEED QUITE EVERY bud there was most attractive, and so many of them chose the darker tones for their dance frocks. There was Gretchen Brown, bud daughter of the Jonathan Browns, Jr., in deep blue chiffon; Virginia Lees, in green with touches of silver and pink roses perched on one shoulder, and Claire Parker in rich rose-red satin brocade.

GREEN IN ALL ITS tints and shades held high favor, of the softest, palest, sea-foam tint was Catharine Robb's dance frock inset with silver lace panels. Helen Moseley's frock was also of chiffon of swirling airiness, and Elizabeth Sprague wore green also, and added for the different touch a suggestion of tinsel gilt.

ALTHEA PAYSON, who had her presentation affair just last week out at the Country Club, wore her coming out frock of pale sky-blue crepe, and Juliet Greene donned for the occasion the presentation frock of silvery lace in which she made her formal bow to world of fashion, not so very long ago.

MISS GREENE was one of the specially honored buds of yesterday. It was for her that Mrs. L. Carteret Fenno gave a dinner, just before the dance.

THREE GIRLS IN WHITE were Eleanor Gibson, Nancy Wentworth and Sally Robbins, each as charming as could be. Miss Gibson wore satin with godets of tulle; Miss Wentworth a frock of tulle over satin while done in rich beading on chiffon, and Miss Robbins was in tulle over satin, with choux of coral ostrich caught here and there.

HELEN GREW was one of the few debutantes to wear a frock of black velvet, highly becoming, combined as it was with rust-red velvet in a Cavalier-like cape effect at the shoulder.

MARGARET GRANNIS also wore a velvet frock of silver and deep rose velvet, the contrast of silvery lace skirt and rose bodice extremely smart.

JUNIA BRIGHT and Caroline Towle both chose gold. Miss Bright's a velvet of honey yellow set off with bands of black fur, and Miss Towle in gold lace over a sheath of pale rose, with a coral sash.

IT WAS ALMOST entirely a young people's party, the invitation list including many of the year-out girls and the still older belles who have been in the social arena for even longer.

PEGGY PORTER was there, in rose satin; Ella Snelling, in black and silver, and Frances Weld, in Nile green and silver brocade. Laura Taylor wore a most becoming frock of silver cloth with ostrich at the hem, and her sister, Gertrude, was in black velvet with ermine bands.

EDITH PARKER POISED a gardenia on the shoulder of her white lace gown, of a rare old ivory tint, and she wore a broad strand of brilliants in her hair.

BARBARA BRADFORD was in a gown of yellow velvet, the always picturesque Barbara Forbes was in jade green tulle and satin, and Louise Thayer in gun metal cloth.

MARY HALL, that petite and blonde maiden, whose wedding will in all probability take place in the not far distant future, wore white, with marabou at the hem.

ROSAMOND BLANCHARD, ever popular daughter of the Archibald Blanchards, and a belle in the youthful set, wore a brocaded silvery green gown, that set off her piquant good looks to great advantage.

FRANCES DEWART, daughter of the Rev. William H. Dewart of the Old North Church and Mrs. Dewart, is always attractively turned out. Last evening particularly so, in a soft peach chiffon with delicate black lace in Van Dyck points.

MARY LOUISE BUTTERFIELD, too, with her rich coloring, is an outstanding figure in the youthful set. Last evening she wore a bright green satin, with ostrich at the hemline.

Mrs. Charles Amory, out for a round of the links at the Everglades Golf Club at Palm Beach. Mrs. Amory belongs to the very innermost set at the Southern resort and to Boston's exclusives as well.

Boston Society Pays Tribute to Great Spanish Artist, Ignacio Zuloaga,

DAINTY VIRGINIA GARDNER was there, in a gown of gold lace, and looking down at the gay scene from the balcony, I saw her mother, Mrs. Philip Gardner, and Mrs. William Endicott Dexter, mother of the slender and blonde Sally Dexter.

THE TWO MATRONS were both in black, and were of the very small group of seniors who viewed the dance either from the balcony or from the vantage points near the receiving line.

THERE IS A BRILLIANT roster of names in the Guest Book of the Vose Galleries, inscribed yesterday afternoon by the many fashionable notables who crowded there to do homage to Senor Ignacio Zuloaga, the famous Spanish painter, now in town.

MANY WERE THE exclamations of delight at the paintings of this gifted Spaniard, each hung so excellently against the soft neutral gray background.

NOR IS THE MAN HIMSELF less delightful than his works. He is quite the dashing figure of romance, with a true Castilian animation and charm of manner.

THE INFORMAL RECEPTION line was graced by such Smart Set matrons as Mesdames Bayard Thayer, Nathaniel Thayer, Edward Jackson Holmes and others, and a crush of the effect filled the rooms way into the late afternoon.

I SAW MRS. GEORGE LEE in frock and chapeau of black, Mrs. I. Tucker Burr, with touches of unspotted ermine on her black velvet wrap, Mrs. Gordon Abbott, and her daughter, Mrs. George Batchelder, Jr., the one in taupe and the other in cocoa brown.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES SUMNER BIRD, JR., arrived quite late in the festivities, Mrs. Bird in a wrap of black caracul with broad picture hat.

MRS. HENRY PARKMAN, JR., mother of the charming bud, Kathleen Rotch, wore a costume of black accented with the touches of white, and Mrs. Everett Morss was attired in much the same mode, an ornament of brilliants thrust through the brim of her very smart hat.

ALL IN BROWN WAS Mrs. Harold Coolidge, one of the ensemble affairs so becoming and effective.

MRS. HENRY ST. JOHN SMITH, in golden brown, the Marchesa Ferrenti, in taupe with black wrap, and Mrs. William Dane Orcutt, in black with ostrich laden chapeau, also were noted in the throngs which came to admire the paintings.

MRS. JASPER WHITING was effectively costumed in black cloth and velvet with small hat. She and Mr. Whiting have rearranged their plans for the late Winter, it seems, and are staying in town, in their apartment at the Hotel Victoria, and are not departing as they had hoped on one of those fascinating journeys they frequently take way into unusual and far-away spots about the world.

A DISTINGUISHED FIGURE was Mrs. Scott Fitz, there with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edward Jackson Holmes, and of course there were many, many others, for the Smart Set is quite entranced with the new lion in their midst.

POPE'S STAND HOLDS UP PACT WITH ITALY

Rome Doubts Pontiff Plans a World Tour if Concordat Is Concluded

Rome, Feb. 11 (A.P.).—All attempts to negotiate a concordat between the Vatican and the Italian government have so far failed because the Holy See, it is stated in circles close to the government, has made it a primary condition that the concordat be acknowledged by all powers, thus becoming an international agreement.

This would enable any signatory party to interfere in what Italy considers her own internal affairs, namely, her relations with the Vatican.

The London Morning Post today printed an item to the effect that Roman Catholic circles in Great Britain understood there was considerable likelihood of a congress being reached soon between the Pope and Premier Mussolini, in which case His Holiness proposed to make a tour of the world.

It is understood that Premier Mussolini has not lost hope of finding a solution satisfactory to both parties, but so far nothing positive has resulted.

The report reaching here that once the concordat is concluded the Pope will make a tour of the world is given no credence in Italian quarters.

DECLARE SOFT DRINKS HIGH IN FOOD VALUES

Secretary Hugh J. McMacklin of the executive board of the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages declared that the production of bottled carbonated beverages has become "one of the largest food industries in the United States." He made this statement at the dinner of the Eastern Bottlers' Association at Hotel Westminster.

Mr. McMacklin said the average bottle of carbonated beverages "will equal in food value a slice of buttered bread, one fresh egg or a glass of milk." He said carbonated gas as used in bottling carbonated beverages destroyed germs and prevented growths of dangerous bacteria, according to scientists of the Mellon Institute of Pittsburgh, who inoculated samples for testing.

V. Otis Robinson of the Coca Cola Bottling Company of this city said: "Many mothers prevent children from drinking carbonated beverages and freely give them milk, which is not as pure as the carbonated drinks."

CURLEY'S BABY SON KEEPS ON IMPROVING

Francis X. Curley, the son of Mayor and Mrs. James M. Curley, who is ill of pneumonia, was so improved today that the physicians in attendance said they were reasonably confident of ultimate recovery, the Mayor and his wife, accordingly, began to consider plans for their long delayed vacation.

FORD TO HAVE TRANS-OCEAN FLEET

Auto King to Operate His Own Ships Across the Atlantic Ocean

Detroit, Feb. 11.—The Ford Motor Corporation will enter transatlantic shipping, operating its own fleet for carrying manufactured automobile parts to the company's foreign plants, it was announced today by Edsel B. Ford, president.

The Ford company has purchased the steamer East Indian from the Emergency Fleet Corporation as the first large unit in the proposed foreign service fleet.

The Ford company already is operating in the South American and coastal trade with two small ships, the steamers Oneida and Onondaga. These steamers "were put into this service on a rather experimental basis," said Mr. Ford's announcement, "and have proved the feasibility of extending our own shipping service to Europe."

The Oneida and Onondaga have been engaged in carrying automobile and tractor parts to Ford assembly plants along the southern coast of the United States and to South America.

The company sent its first ship to a foreign port November 5 last, when the Onondaga, laden with motorcar parts, sailed from the River Rouge plant at Detroit for Buenos Aires, Argentina.

World Made Better by Acts Like This!

Paralyzed from hips down, the lines from his affliction deeply engraved in his face, a man of about forty-five years sat in a hand-propelled tricycle on the ferryboat Newtowne gazing perplexedly up the steep gangway leading to the trainshed of the Narrow Guage Railroad at East Boston.

The tide was at ebb and the gangway was pitched at angle seemingly of 45 degrees. And the last of his fellow passengers had laboriously passed up the incline.

A ferryboat deckhand, however, had not ignored the predicament of the cripple. After making fast a hawser to the slip, he moved swiftly across the deck to the tricycle.

NO WORD UTTERED.

Not a word was uttered. The deckhand winked broadly. The cripple grinned back.

A few seconds later the tricycle had been pushed up onto the train shed level. When the cripple turned back to look at the deckhand only a blue-uniformed back could be seen scooting back down the gangway.

On toward the waiting train for Revere the cripple propelled his little flivver.

Standing by the train were two brakemen. The moment they espied the approaching tricycle quick action was in order.

SMILE AT CRIPPLE.

One rushed into the baggage car and opened its side door. The other helped the cripple out of the tricycle. Both trainmen then lifted the heavy machine into the car. The cripple was assisted into a seat.

Again, curiously enough, not a word was spoken by the trio involved in this little episode. The trainmen flashed smiles at the man they had aided. The cripple's eyes twinkled back at them.

All seemed to take the affair for granted. There was no condescension or the sympathy so obnoxious to one who has been a life sufferer expressed by the trainmen. And the cripple knew that they knew how appreciative he was of the demonstration of the chivalry of the strong for the weak.

Such acts of kindness and public service deserve more than the passing notice of the few who witness them.

and unhappiness, that has kept the human race climbing upward.

"REMEMBERING HAPPIER THINGS" makes hardship unendurable, Dante said. Tennyson repeated it.

The unfortunate woman who killed herself had been a belle of the "Proms" at the University of Virginia, and had married the hero of the university, captain of the football team. Then came divorce, unhappiness, poverty and suicide.

SENATOR McKELLAR, Democrat from Tennessee, says of the bill that would turn Muscle Shoals over to the power trust: "The passage of the Underwood measure would be the greatest calamity that has happened to the South since the Civil War."

Many Senators know that it is so, but if one of the biggest monopolies wants something, you can hardly expect the United States Senate to refuse it. You can, however, expect President Coolidge to veto it. He has, from Henry Ford, exact information on the Muscle Shoals affair.

VIRGINIA MAY have a woman Governor. The probable candidate would be Dr. Kate Waller Barrett, whose address at the Democratic national convention last year called forth so great an ovation. Being Governor of a State or mayor of a city is practically to be a housekeeper on a big scale. Women, in politics, will bring a new, better element to government. And most important of all, women voting will make men in office think about the needs of women and children.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY GILCHRIST ASSOCIATION

More than 1,200 members of the Gilchrist Association elected officers for the coming year for their organization, composed of fellow workers at Ford Hall, following an enthusiastic demonstration. Addresses were delivered by the candidates.

The following were elected: A. E. Stevens, president; H. G. Nieland, vice-president; Robert Hearn, second vice president. Those chosen for the board of directors are James T. Chase, Felix Vorenberg, Paul Goodhue, Isabel F. May, Harvey A. Schaschke, Alexander J. Jardine, Patrick J. Graham, Mary E. Gaunt and Frank R. Splan.

SAFE IS OPENED, RINGS AND OVERCOATS STOLEN

Salem, Feb. 11.—The looting of a clothing store at No. 66 Lafayette street was discovered early today by the proprietor, Samuel Gregory. The safe had been turned on its side and the door forced. Gregory told the police two valuable diamond rings, $12.50 in cash and ten overcoats are missing.

TEMPLE ISRAEL TO HEAR TALK BY PROF. ALLEY

Professor Alden G. Alley will be the speaker at the February meeting of the Brotherhood Temple Israel, Commonwealth avenue, and will address the members tonight in the vestry on "What Is the World Really Doing for Oppressed Racial and Religious Minorities?"

For years a professor of history and government and recently an attendant at the sessions of the World Court, having personally investigated that part of Germany known as "the occupied territory," Professor Alley comes prepared to give an accurate account of actual details concerning the same. Not only a brilliant student but a practical research worker in international relations, his appearance is a much anticipated event by the Temple Israel Brotherhood.

After a short business meeting a musical program, arranged by Henry Gideon, will follow. Edward Boatner, baritone, will sing a group of songs particularly appropriate for Abraham Lincoln's birthday. Miss Marjorie Liberman of the New England Conservatory of Music will play piano selections.

Members of the congregation and their friends are invited to attend.

A Yiddish show at Grand Opera House tonight will benefit the Chelsea Hebrew School. Given under the auspices of the ladies' auxiliary to the school, the affair will donate the proceeds toward the erection of a building costing about $175,000. Only $50,000 of this amount is still needed.

This organization to date has contributed $9,000 to the fund, and with the performance tonight and other affairs to be given at later dates they hope to increase their pledge to many thousands more. Mrs. D. Caro, president, and Mrs. I. Brodie, chairman, are in charge.

Tonight marks the fifteenth anniversary of the Sisterhood Temple Beth El, and will be celebrated with an elaborate ball in the new community ballroom of the Beth El Hebrew School. This will be the first pretentious affair held in the new building, and the formal opening is expected to attract a big crowd.

The Sisterhood has pledged quite a sum to the building fund. All receipts realized from tonight's efforts will be added to the fund. The fund officers are: Mmes. Aleck Wagman, chairman; I. M. Levin and B. Parvey, assistant chairmen; A. I. Meyer, treasurer; I. Stone, secretary.

Somerville Young Zionists will hold a dance for the cause tonight in Heineman House, Somerville, celebrating nine years of existence. Jonas Raab, the club ward for five years, will again be the happy recipient of the proceeds. The nine-year-old lad is now living in Palestine. The club, directed by Miss Libby Jacobson, a member of the National Young Judea, executive committee, assists in other charitable and educational causes.

The dance committee includes the Misses Bessie David, Pearl Korner, Charlotte Edelstein, Mary Seidman, Rose Abramson, Harry Lipkind, Myer Levison, Charles Promboim, Harry Silverman, Abraham Jacobson and Louis Levison.

You'll never say "not much taste" about a soda cracker again—

WE have never been content with the belief that a soda cracker is just a soda cracker. To admit this would be to deny the very motto of Sunshine Bakers, which always has been — better biscuits.

This striving for a better soda cracker has been afoot for years—just as with other Sunshine Biscuits.

Now, as every housewife knows, the taste of food is the result of manipulating two mysteries, ingredients and preparation.

It is in the perfect balancing of these that success comes—in better flavor, lightness and eating quality. To secure these in a soda cracker several new methods have been employed. A different way of working the dough, an advance in the blending of flour, in different cutting, and even a specially shaped cracker as an aid to thorough baking.

The New Sunshine Soda Cracker made by the "Full Grain" Process

If baking isn't an art, fallen cakes and heavenly pie crust couldn't come from the same cook. Uniformity is the key to all successful baking. You get the process right, and then hold it, no matter what the conditions are. The "how" of this, is the real difficulty. It means:

Special temperatures strictly held, no matter what the weather;

A brand new way of working the dough so that it can't possibly toughen;

A different method of cutting the biscuit;

Most careful watchfulness at the ovens;

Just the right percentage of gluten in the wheat;

The outcome of this process is a new kind of soda cracker, full flavored, rich, of fine texture and good looking plumpness.

The flavor of this cracker owes much to its shape (patented). The notched sides form vent holes in the sheet of crackers as they bake.

This assures through and through baking. In addition this cracker is more convenient to eat—doesn't crumble and can readily be split in two.

Higher than bread in energy value (weight for weight)

This soda cracker is not just something to munch on. It is a real food. For example, compared to bread, pound for pound, this new cracker has more fuel value. In combination with jams and jellies, it supplies a balanced ration. So, after all, this delight in eating soft yielding spreads and these crisp, crunchy Sunshine Crackers, is perfectly natural — and healthful as well.

NEAL REVOKES LICENSE FOR BACK BAY GARAGE

A license for a public garage at Nos. 18 and 20 Deerfield street, granted by the Boston Street Commissioners to Harry I. Shuckley, was today revoked by State Fire Marshal George C. Neal. The marshal's decision followed a hearing on an appeal taken by property owners on Bay State road, who protested the garage would be within twelve feet of a large apartment house and sixteen feet of another. According to the finding, the proposed garage would be against the welfare of the community.

REVERE POLICE FIGHT DISMISSED BY COURT

Judge Sanderman in Supreme Court today dismissed the petition of Michael J. Hartigan to compel Payson Dana, civil service commissioner, to place Hartigan's name on the eligible list as a sergeant of police in Revere. Hartigan was appointed by Mayor Thomas A. Noone as one of his last official acts before being succeeded by Mayor John E. Walsh. Attorney Lewis Marks, counsel for Hartigan, charged Commissioner Dana with being swayed by "political influences" that defeated Noone.

HARVARD BOY THINKS JAZZ A RELIGION

"A Flapper," Also a Foreign Term to Adolph Sounwald, Theology Student

And now one more distinction has been added to the fame of Harvard. Within her gates resides a young man with eyes that see and ears that hear, but who doesn't know what a flapper is nor what is meant by Jazz!

And Radcliffe is all astir.

"What is a flapper?" Adolph Sanwald of the Harvard School of Theology honestly wants to know.

He admits knowing all about Eve, is well posted on Delilah, and is acquainted with the history of Solomon's wives. But of their modern sister, the flapper, and her ways, he pleads total ignorance.

It came about when Adolph, who comes from Germany, was asked what he thought of the American girl, his blue eyes lit up.

"Oh, the American girl, she is charming!" he exclaimed. She is so slim, and she dresses beautifully!"

But when he was asked to give his opinion on the flapper, Adolf's eyes lost their glow and assumed a quizzical expression.

"A what—?" he demanded.

"A flapper."

"A flapper? What is that?" came his innocent retort. And when he was asked to give his views on jazz, his answer must tickle even the pious souls who founded Harvard.

"Is that a new American creed?" he wants to know.

Radcliffe is all astir, while a fair Boston University coed vows that she will introduce Adolf to both.

Stirs Radcliffe

Adolph Saunwald, Harvard student, who knows not the meaning of the term Jazz. Neither has he ever heard of a flapper. B. U. co-ed promises to introduce him to both.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow — complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 30c.

EMBER OF LOVE, 50 YEARS OLD, FLAMES UP

Cobbler, 82, Weds Woman of 80, Sweetheart in Days Long Since Gone

Portland, Me., Feb. 11.—Embers of a romance of more than fifty years ago, believed long since cold, burst into flame here with the marriage of Ambrose Hamilton, eighty-two-year-old cobbler of Cheheague Island, and Fannie Hill Hamilton, eighty, the sweetheart of his youth.

Ambrose had courted Fannie more than a half century ago and they had planned their wedding. But something happened which broke up the romance and Fannie married Ephriam Hamilton. Ambrose also wed another girl and four children were the result of the union.

The mates of both Ambrose and Fannie died and for years both have been living at their homes on the island. As loneliness and old age crept over the couple, they gradually renewed the friendship of their youth. Love was reborn and the couple were wed.

Young and old of the island serenaded the couple after the wedding and were guests at an old fashioned supper in Ambrose's home.

MIDNIGHT SHOW AT WALDRON'S THIS EVENING

There will be "Monkey Shines" galore at midnight tonight. When the clocks of the city strike twelve the curtain on the stage at Waldron's Casino will rise to the opening number of a special performance, one of the several special events presented in celebration of the 25th anniversary of the establishment of Columbia Burlesque.

The show at Waldron's Casino this week is fittingly named "Monkey Shines." It is a Clark and McCullough production and, like all the burlesques created by this pair of producers it is a sparkling phantasy of fun, music and dancing.

At the Gayety Theatre there is also an imposing list of special attractions, offered to celebrate Columbia burlesque's quarter century mark. The show at the Gayety is "Golden Crooks" featuring Billy Arlington.

PABLO CASALS, CELLIST, HEARD AT SYMPHONY HALL

Pablo Casals, famous cellist, played at Symphony Hall last night. Casals is not heard often in Boston. When he is termed the greatest living cellist, it is no exaggeration. He has a beautiful tone, not only in the middle register, which is so lovely in the cello, but in the upper and lower registers. His technique is remarkable. In the most difficult passage-work, his tone almost never becomes shrill, and the same thing is true even when he forces his tone to its loudest.

Mr. Casal chose a program which was pleasing to his audience. He added several encores.

IF RHEUMATIC EAT NO SWEETS

Says glass of Jad Salts help to overcome Rheumatism acid.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, and above all, drink plenty of good water and avoid eating sweets of all kind.

Rheumatism is caused by body waste and acids resulting from food fermentation. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this waste and acids, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste matter, also to stimulate the kidneys, thus often ridding the blood of rheumatic poison.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

ANYBODY SEEN LITTLE BETTY'S PET DOG?

"Lady" Disappears While Her Young Mistress Is Away on a Visit

"Lady," the dog, has gone. After faithfully attending little Betty Bridges and her still smaller sister, Catherine, since her first appearance in the family the dog has disappeared.

While Betty, who is only three years old, enjoys herself in Canada where she is vacationing with her mother, blissfully ignorant of the fact that her pet is missing, her sister stays home and mourns and her father searches. The dog, which is of the German police type, was last seen in a barn at No. 1440 Washington street.

When Betty returns and finds her dog missing her heart will break, so any one finding the dog should communicate with Mr. Bridges at No. 15 Cobden street, Roxbury.

Don't look wistfully at winter pleasures

DOES sore throat throw you out of step with winter sports? Don't let it. There's no need of looking longingly at out-door pleasures this time of year because sore throat locks the door.

Guard against this trouble by taking the simple precaution of using Listerine systematically as a preventive for throat irritations and the more serious ills that so often follow.

When you feel that first "dry hitch" on swallowing, gargle with Listerine, the safe antiseptic. Don't let sore throat stand in your way just when you want to feel your best for business or pleasure.

Have Listerine handy always in your bathroom. It's the ideal, safe antiseptic. Its dozens of different uses are fully described on the circular that comes around every bottle.—Lambert Pharmacal Company, Saint Louis, U. S. A.

LISTERINE Throat Tablets, containing the antiseptic oils of Listerine, are now available . . While we frankly admit that no tablet or candy lozenge can correct deficiencies, the Listerine antiseptic oils in these tablets are very valuable as a relief for throat irritations — 25 cents.

Twelve Months in the Year

More motorists every day come to the conclusion that for year 'round utility there is no more practical or convenient car than a Ford.

The Fordor Sedan is roomy, comfortable, and attractive in appearance—inside and out.

In city traffic it handles and parks so easily that thousands drive it who could readily afford costlier cars.

On country roads it comes through where heavier cars frequently cannot. Such qualities as these have brought the Ford its well-deserved reputation as the "Universal Car."

Pains

That are needless
Relieve at once

Rheumatic pains, lameness, soreness—pains you can end at once should be stopped. The means should always be on call.

This modern relief is Red Pepper Rub. It so excels the old ways that there be no comparison. It is saving ions of pain.

Nothing else creates such concentrated, such penetrating heat. And heat that doesn't hurt.

Apply Red Pepper Rub and the tingling heat is instantly apparent. In three minutes that heat seems to reach the depths. Then the pain and soreness disappear.

At first the results seem like magic. No other method ever brought them. Then you come to rely on them. You come to know that most pain is easily avoided.

But these troubles often appear at night. That means hours of suffering. A jar of Red Pepper Rub on your shelf would prevent them.

So many people suffer needless pains—pains that this method can end in three minutes. That is a pity. Get this Rub today and have it ready to end every such pain at once.

Admiration of Fair Sex Always Proved Inspiration to Jack Dempsey

Girls of All Classes and Types Flock Around Champion at Every Public Appearance

The girls bidded him about his new nose, and felt his muscles, and giggled and kissed him—and they'd have rather had him there than the King of Spain or the President or the Prince of Wales.

By JACK DEMPSEY.
(As told to W. B. Seabrook.)

CHAPTER XVII.

JACK DEMPSEY gave a banquet last night to a crowd of his Broadway friends, at the Monte Carlo Cafe—and as a result slept until nearly noon this morning.

He is as careful of his sleep as a prima donna or a prima donna. He usually goes to bed—or rather, is put to bed by the faithful Jerry—before eleven-thirty.

On the rare nights when he sits up late, Jerry locks all the doors, pulls down the blinds, bangs out a "Do not disturb" sign, and then when morning comes, lies in wait like a bulldog to guard the champion's slumber. Neither Doc Kearns nor the fire department, nor the Angel Gabriel could disturb the "champ," except over Jerry's dead body.

A KING TO VALET.

You see, Jerry believes, to the very bottom of his soul, that Jack Dempsey is the greatest man in the world, the most important man in the world, and the finest. Talk about no man being a hero to his valet! Dempsey is Jerry's religion. Jack is like a king or a god.

Jerry would have been pleased last night at the banquet, and the "revue" and dance that followed, to observe that the beautiful young ladies of the gay white lights seem to share his views enthusiastically.

Wherever Dempsey goes, the girls crowd around him likes bees around a honey-pot. I observed it of the Junior League Society girls and debutantes in a half-dozen big East Side clubs.

Damon Runyon tells me it was a riot in Paris and Berlin where women followed the champion in the streets

As Jack Dempsey and Jess Willard appeared when "The Tiger" stripped Willard of his crown. Layout also shows ringside scene at Toledo, O., where bout was staged.

like children following a circus. And the half-clad, bare-legged jazz babies of the "revue" last night were just like the rest of their sisters.

They had eyes only for the champion, and when they weren't doing their pony ballets and skimmies and songs, they crowded around him like kids around Santa Claus.

THIS IS THE LIFE.

They were not trying to "vamp" him. They were just happy and friendly and gay. They kidded him about his new nose, and complimented him on it and felt his muscles and giggled and cried, "Ooh!" and kissed him in fun—and they'd have rather had him there than the King of Spain or the President or the Prince of Wales.

Why all this continuous adulation from all sorts of pretty girls hasn't turned Jack Dempsey's head and puffed it out with vanity, is to me one of the greatest mysteries about his personality. That he has remained modest—almost shy—is a perpetual miracle to those who know him intimately.

Today, at the breakfast which was really luncheon, for as I said, the champ slept until noon, there was more "girl stuff," indirectly.

Jerry had been downstairs in the hotel lobby for his morning papers, and in one of the picture sheets had found something which diverted him greatly. He poked it under his idol's nose, with a mumbled "Hey, look's here, Champ." Jerry always mumbles.

EVER, THE GIRL!

It was a picture of Doris Deane, pretty film actress, with Fatty Arbuckle. Dainty little Doris is one of the famous and lovely ladies who at one time or another have been more or less seriously reported engaged to the champion.

The lines under this picture reported that Miss Deane and Arbuckle were rumored, in Hollywood, to be planning marriage, after Arbuckle's present wife, Mrs. Minta Arbuckle, had secured her divorce.

Dempsey was interested and amused. He glanced up from the paper with a grin and said:

"Well, Kid, it looks like she's going to marry a heavy-weight after all, though it may be the bank, but I hope if she does she'll be happy. She's a little darling of a girl.

"Where did I meet her? It was at a party one night in Los Angeles, I think at Constance Talmadge's. Doris and her mother were both there. I liked her from the first because she was full of fun and pep, and a beautiful dancer. She came of a fine family, too, and through all her fun there was something about her that made you know it.

MAMA THERE TOO!

"She taught me some new dance steps, and I asked her some afterward to come to dinner with me and dance a little afterward at the Ship Cafe. She brought her mama along, and I was proud and pleased that she would come.

"It was like something you read in a book, if you get me, and something that I used to think, when I was a mucker in a coal mine, would never happen to me. You don't get me, eh? It's kind of hard to tell exactly, for it's more of just a feeling than any particular thing.

"But here's a table with rose-colored lights and a little vase of flowers in the middle, and music playing, and here's a pretty girl—prettier even than the flowers—and then here's an older lady, like a chaperone in regular society, and here at the same table is a man in dinner clothes that they smile at—and that man's me. And you like it because it's all just like a picture you've once seen in a book, and the kind of picture you once thought you'd never be in yourself.

"Doris and I were never really engaged. But we were good friends. There's a photograph of us kissing that was published at the time they said we were engaged, but if you look close at it, you'll see that it was nothing but a stage kiss. I never really kissed her in my life.

NOT ALWAYS SOFT.

"I guess all this stuff wouldn't mean so much to a guy who has had it all his life, but you've got to remember that it was a new thing to me. I had a nice enough time when I was a kid, but from the time I was about seventeen up to past twenty, there was tough going.

"It's no easy life working with a shovel in a mine, and hoboing it from town to town. And it wasn't much easier when I first came east with Jack Price, poor, on the edge of ragged, and no prospect of being anything else—or at least that was the way we sometimes thought.

"Believe me, no girl would look at me then. I used to see 'em on Fifth avenue in the sunshine and on Broadway at night, so pretty it made you sick to look at them, with their little high-heeled slipes and shiny ankles and red lips and nifty dresses, and some lucky guy swinging along as if he owned the world and walking along beside them.

"I remember one afternoon Jack Price left me alone in a little dump of a bedroom with a cot and a chair and a busted washstand in a cheap rooming house on Sixth avenue, while he went out to see if he could borrow some money.

"I was so restless I couldn't stand it in there, and I went out to the park, and up near one of the little lakes and sat down on a bench, sore and miserable, and a little bit hungry, too, and I made a shave, and the pasteboard I'd stuck inside the soles of my shoes to cover the holes had come through and so had the socks so that I could feel the pavement when I walked, and, believe me, I hated New York.

"Well, while I was sitting there, a nifty roadster stopped at the side of the lake driveway, and a girl and a man got out, and went and sat on a bench, not twenty feet away from me. They didn't pay any more notice to me than if I'd been an ash barrel, but I noticed them.

"You could look at them and tell they had had everything. She was a beauty to begin with, yellow hair and big blue eyes, and from her hat and clothes and gloves and jewels you could know she was rich. And you could tell from the way the man acted that she belonged to him and that he was proud of her. And you could tell from the way she acted just the way she sat and looked at him—that she was glad she belonged to him.

READY TO MURDER.

"That fellow didn't know it—but it's the one time in my life I wanted to commit murder. I wanted to throw him in the lake. It wasn't the particular girl. I wouldn't know her from Eve if I met her. It was just the idea. I hated and envied him. It seemed like he had something I would never have as long as I lived. Don't get me wrong. I don't mean mush or love. It wasn't that that got my goat. It was everything he had and what it stood for—and what I thought I would never get.

"Now I've got it. And sometimes it makes me happy, and sometimes I'm just as restless as I ever was when I was broke with Jack Price, and sometimes it seems like a sort of a dream that has happened to somebody else who is not me at all. But in the long run I think I get a lot more out of it than the guys who have had it all their lives.

In the next chapter, Jack Dempsey will tell how he "got it," how he defeated Jess Willard in Toledo, and "how it felt to be world champion at last." It is not a sporting-page record of training camps and ring tactics, but an intimate human story that has never been told before.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $2.

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine has a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are made of pine and syrups. The "syrup" is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. This makes a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, and tastes good.

You can feel it take right hold of a cough or cold. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SOVIET PLACES ORDER WITH HUB FIRM

Machinery Bought Here and in Lowell; Dupont Company Sells Dyes

New York, Feb. 11.—Soviet Russia has placed its first orders for American dyes and textile machinery. The All-Russian Textile Syndicate, Inc., the official trading company here, made the announcement.

The order for dyes, described as "considerable," was placed with the Dupont interests in Wilmington, Del., the Russians saying they found certain American quantity-production dyes were superior to those made in Germany. Although Germany with its financial machinery and warehouse accommodations in Russia had the jump on American dye makers, they said, they expected to be increasingly in the market here, at least in these lines.

The Russian syndicate contracted for a trial order of textile machinery with Saco-Lowell shops and the Universal Winding Machine Company of Boston. This followed a six weeks' study of New England mill methods and machinery by N. M. Nutveroff, vice-president, who said he found purchases of this machinery here offered advantages over the purchases heretofore made exclusively in England.

What She Needs Is McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets

If she only knew that she could put on at least 5 pounds of good healthy flesh in 30 days she wouldn't be worrying about her peaked face, hollow cheeks and neck and run down looks.

She has tried Cod Liver Oil, but the ill-smelling, nasty tasting stuff upset her stomach and made her feel worse than before.

Doctors and good pharmacists know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitalizing vitamines that make flesh, create appetite, restore vigor, build up the power to resist disease and chase away nervousness.

But it's horrible tasting stuff and every day fewer people are taking it for doctors are prescribing and the people are fast learning that they can get better results with McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, for which druggists all over the country are having a tremendous demand.

It is a wonderful upbuilding medicine for skinny, backward children, especially after sickness and 60 tablets only cost 60 cents.

One woman gained 10 pounds in 22 days and if any skinny man or woman can't put on 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist will gladly return the purchase price.

What answer will you send to SMART SET in reply to this woman's pathetic defense?

. . . SMART SET will pay $25

FOR EACH ACCEPTABLE LETTER . . .

Ask yourself now if she could have paid a more bitter price than this?

In her hand something glittered . . . What she could not have she would not let anyone else have.

Did this Genius Have the Right to Make Her Own Moral Standard?

Should Talented Oscar Wilde, Lord Byron, Sappho and Nell Gwyn be judged by the standards of Main Street? . . . What is Your Reply to this Great Actress's Excuse for Her "Affair"?

THE brilliant actress who tells in March SMART SET why her name was blotted out of the White Lights along Broadway gives this excuse for her unconventional conduct with a noted player:

"It is different for you women whom life permits to live comfortably at home, always able to be with your husband, to have houses, babies. For you to have done what I did might have been sin, but for me—to whom the road denied everything—for me an actress, doomed to loneliness, to partings, it was inevitable.

"I, his leading woman," the actress reveals to SMART SET readers, "was just as much infatuated with Gareth as the most marshmallow-brained matinee girl.

"Oh, my God, child!" he gasped through his kisses. "I love you, I love you—"

"You mustn't," I pleaded.

"But I must, I can't help it. Your throat is like ivory—the finest ivory; I can't help kissing it."

"And so I became intimate with this fine actor though his wife Jacqueline had not divorced him. I considered art and temperament above marriage vows.

"One night, as we were together on the stage, I saw a strange look cross Gareth's face.

"In a stage box sat a woman in evening dress, with magnificent white shoulders and black hair—a woman with discontented, vindictive mouth and eyes—his wife Jacqueline.

"The big scene came when we played down-stage within four feet of the stage box occupied by Jacqueline. As I bent over Gareth, hands on his shoulders, Jacqueline had bent forward too and her eyes were blazing at us through the golden dust curtain of the footlights.

"Then I gasped aloud with terror—"

What happened in this feud between passion's rivals?

How did this actress with the beautiful ivory shoulders—just on the verge of a Broadway triumph—find her career ruined in an instant?

And do all lovers like Gareth, worship neck and shoulders with little regard to the heart beneath?

Read this amazing revelation of a great actress. Hers is one of twenty-three astonishing stories by men and women who have had high adventures and vital experiences, and who tell them all frankly in March SMART SET—now ready for you at the nearest newsstand.

TYPHOID OYSTERS ARE TRACED TO LONG ISLAND

Washington, Feb. 11.—Investigation of the recent "excessive prevalence" of typhoid fever in New York Chicago, Washington and several other cities has led the Public Health Service to conclude that the disease was caused by shell oysters distributed by a company operating within the vicinity of West Sayville, N. Y.

The preponderance of evidence is that the general supply of no large distributor of oysters was uniformly infected," said a Public Health statement, "but that oysters infected in one or more beds or part or parts of one or more beds, or at one or more floats, and constituting but small proportion of the total, were introduced into and distributed with a large supply of oysters of good sanitary quality."

Revere Firemen to Get Xmas Pay Soon

Revere firemen expect to celebrate Christmas of 1924 very merrily in the near future. Appropriations for the fire department were exhausted five weeks before the close of last year, so none of the fire department received pay for that period. As a result Santa Claus was not very generous when he visited the homes of some of the members.

Mayor John Walsh has announced he will ask the city council at its next meeting to appropriate money with which to give the firemen their back pay.

DOG TRAPS AGED PAIR ON PORCH FOR AN HOUR

Menaced Saugus Couple Rescued When Policeman Appears and Shoots Terrier

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Holmes, an aged couple, were held captive for nearly an hour on the porch of their farmhouse at Corbett's Corner, North Saugus, today by an Airedale terrier.

Lieutenant Frank Joy of the Saugus Police Department, who was summoned by telephone, arrived with a shotgun and fired both barrels into the body of the animal, killing it. Other than frightening Mr. and Mrs. Holmes, the Airedale had not harmed them. They are wealthy.

Mrs. Holmes, who is seventy-seven years old, three years her husband's junior, accompanied him to the porch, when he went out to feed the hens.

As the woman opened the door leading into a shed, the dog leaped in and began barking. The couple started for the house, but the Airedale blocked their path, growling and showing his teeth. Huddled against the wall they stood helpless for some time, until a neighbor finally heard their cries and telephoned for the police.

When Lieutenant Joy arrived, he claims, the dog leaped at him, and, after trying ineffectively to ward the animal off, he shot the dog dead.

Charles Friedman Appeals When Sentenced for Receiving Stolen Auto

Charles Friedman was sentenced to the House of Correction for a year by Judge Broadhurst in Suffolk Superior Court today for receiving an automobile stolen from Winslow Company, Inc., wool dealers.

Sentence was stayed to allow counsel for Friedman to take the case to the Supreme Court on exceptions.

Friedman was tried with his brother, Percy, and David Namet on the charge of conspiracy in connection with the alleged theft and receiving of stolen cars. Charles Friedman was found guilty on one count, only that of receiving. His brother and Namet were found guilty of conspiracy and larceny.

Namet was sentenced to the House of Correction for from two to three years. Percy Friedman, for this and another case of breaking and entering and larceny of a large amount of alcohol, is serving a combined sentence of from nine to twelve years.

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Goodwin complained of these defendants in his recent criticisms.

Crab Apple Tree Blooming in Dorchester

A sign of an early Spring is seen on a crab apple tree, on the grounds of the home of N. Winthrop Robinson at No. 244 Savin Hill avenue, Dorchester, which is beginning to bud. The tiny leaf buds at the ends of the twigs have been swelled by the sun and warm rain. When split open the buds reveal the green of new life.

CHARGE CONSTABLE RETAINED TAX MONEY

John T. Burns, a constable in Chelsea, was arraigned today in Suffolk Superior Court on an indictment charging him wit failing to make return of $2,875.34, which it is alleged he collected for the city from delinquent poll tax payers. He entered a plea of not guilty and was held in $3,000 for trial.

COMPROMISE RENT IN TREMONT TRUST CASE

Judge Sanderson in Supreme Court today authorized Bank Commissioner Joseph G. Allen to compromise for $2,000 a claim of Edward Sohler and other trustees of the Tremont Trust Building for rent under a contract that ran for fifteen years and had not expired when the trust company expired. The trustees sought $20,000 under the trust company's lease contract but renting of the premises to other tenants resulted in the compromise.

KILL BILL TO REPEAL N. H. PRIMARY LAW

Concord, N. H., Feb. 11.—By a vote of 11 to 9 with two senators paired and one absent, the State Senate today killed a bill designed to repeal the direct primary system of nominating party candidates for office and to re-establish the caucus-es convention system. A similar bill is pending in the House.

Pains Stopped for millions in this way

Remember this when you feel a pain. Millions have learned how to stop it at once. For 65 years they have done so by rubbing with St. Jacobs Oil.

All the pains allied with rheumatism, with soreness, backache or lameness. And chest colds are checked at the start.

Just rub the sore spot with St. Jacobs Oil. It causes counter irritation. Or it relieves the congestion by bringing the blood to the surface. Then the pain is ended, and you can wait in comfort while Nature puts

Now there are several ways offered to do this. But remember that St. Jacobs Oil has for 65 years stood the test. It has proved itself to millions. Nobody has ever found anything better, and nobody ever will.

Don't wait until the pain starts. Keep St. Jacobs Oil on hand. It may save nights of suffering. Rub the sore spot as soon as a pain appears, or a chest cold. Get relief at once. Think what protection this means to you, and the cost is only 35 cents.

Another "drafty" job—and another job for REM

Mr. Ben Brackney, of 3137 W. 44th Street, is a Chicago city engineer. His work takes him around a lot, driving an open car.

Not bad at all in summer, but you know how an open car feels in Chicago in winter. That northeast wind off Lake Michigan is in a class by itself. It's so cold it hurts!

Plenty of coughs used to come Mr. Brackney's way. Now he's learned how to fight 'em off with REM:

"Last winter I had a very severe cough," says Mr. Brackney. "It stayed with me several days. Every winter I catch a bad one. I get coughs from driving an open car.

"Everything I tried did me no good, but some friend recommended REM to me, so I went to the Purity Drug Store, Archer Ave. & Kedzie, and got a bottle.

"I was really surprised how quick it relieved me. Since that time I stop a cough right at the beginning by taking REM. Believe me I would not be without it.

So many who have tried REM speak of the quick relief it brings.

This quick action is largely due to a special ingredient — effective, harmless — not found in ordinary cough syrups. Clinging to your throat as it is swallowed, REM quickly begins its work of quieting your cough.

No Opiates in REM. And pleasant to take.

Ask your druggist for REM—the blue package with the round orange label. If it doesn't help you, you can have your money back. Fair enough!

EAST BOSTON MAN IS KILLED BY GAS FUMES

The efforts of three police officers using the prone method failed to save the life of Paul Hayden, fifty-five years old, of No. 153 London st., East Boston, who was asphyxiated by gas while he slept. Hayden was found lying across the bed unconscious by his daughter, who went to rouse him in time for work. When she noticed the odor of gas and could not rouse her father she called the police. Hayden was taken to the East Boston Relief Hospital, where he died. After an investigation police stated Hayden met death by accident. A wall jet in his room was found partly opened.

It's Free

If that cold stays

You can check a cold in 24 hours. Stop the fever, the headache, the danger. And La Grippe in 3 days.

You can do this in the best way known to science. In the way which millions have adopted. In the way so sure, so reliable that every druggist guarantees it.

That way is Hill's Cascara-Bromide Quinine. A way based on years of research. A way so perfect that 25 years have developed no way to improve it.

Then why takes chances? Why let a cold linger? Why try to check it in inefficient ways? No one ever knows to what a cold may lead.

Colds Broken in one day

Hill's checks a cold within 24 hours. It ends the fever and headache. It stops Grippe in 3 days.

Its action is complete. It not merely stops colds but removes their poisons. It tones the entire system. It creates the force to restore your vitality.

It is the final result of years of research. It has stood 25 years of tests.

You will always get Hill's—and the genuine—when you once learn what it does.

Clear The Head Stop That Cold

Cold in the head means a germ attack. The membranes become inflamed, head becomes stuffed. And that's misery.

Quick relief demands direct attack on those germs. Apply Ely's Cream Balm in the nostrils and breathe it. The head clears instantly. Inflammation is subdued. The cold disappears.

Don't wait for internal effects. Fight the cold where it is—in the air passages. Ask your druggist for a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Enjoy this quick relief.

GLYNN LAUDS HEROISM MEDALS

Hidden heroism of brave men of the Boston fire department—deeds of valour never reported officially or otherwise, will, in the future, find recognition and reward as the result of the Boston Evening American's plan to bestow two medals each year upon heroic Hub fire fighters.

In a statement issued today, Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn expressed pleasure over the medal award announcement and added his thanks for the co-operation of the Boston Evening American with the fire department in furtherance of the cause of fire protection. The statement follows:

"It is a beautiful thought to establish the practice of recognizing the heroic service of the members of the Boston firemen. Many good and valorous deeds performed by them go unnoticed, due to the fact that Boston has only two medals to offer, but due principally to the fact that no attempt is made to find out the details of many an act of bravery.

"Many men have performed brave deeds and made no mention of them. Firemen feel that they are performing the duty they promised to perform when they joined the fire department. They make no claim for honors or glory. I have been informed of many acts of heroism that have never been officially reported.

"With the introduction of the plan of the Boston Evening American all deeds will be reported and thoroughly investigated by a committee of citizens not connected with the fire department. In my mind this is the most fair and fitting manner of deciding who is entitled to the awards.

"I congratulate and thank the Boston Evening American for the interest they have shown and are showing in the work of the Boston Fire Department. While the award of valuable medals will create another urge for the firemen it will also serve as a mark of appreciation, of recognition, of work well done.

"Firemen do not seek honors, but firemen are human, and a kind word or sign mean much in the lives of these men who risk everything for the city of Boston, its homes and its citizens."

GAFFNEY AND GERETY TO APPEAR AT BUTLER'S

Patrick J. Gaffney, greatest of Irish fiddlers, and Okey and Columbia record artist, and Philip J. Mrs. Susan Peters, who plays for Mr. Gaffney's recordings, will be at the piano for him. Miss Theresa M. Krumscheid, well-known pianist, will accompany Mr. Gerety.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic Coughs and Persistent Colds Lead to Serious Lung Trouble. You Can Stop Them Now With Creomulsion, an Emulsified Creosote That Is Pleasant to Take.

Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, Creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to cresote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membrane and stop the irritation and inflammation while the cresote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California." Refuse any imitation.

MEAN THIEF TOOK THEIR CARRIAGE

Robert (left) and James McFarland, aged 10 months and 22 months, respectively, whose baby carriage was stolen by the "meanest thief."

Two baby boys and no carriage!

The meanest thief in the world was at last been found.

It's the person who took a perambulator from the grounds of the City Hospital while Mrs. James McFarland of No. 3 Pratt court, Roxbury, was inside with her sick child!

For a long time Mrs. McFarland had added to her little store of pennies and dimes until at last she had enough to buy the coveted "pram" for the littles ones, Jimmie, aged 22 months, and Robert, aged 10 months.

How proud the little mother was of the lovely stroller which could carry Robert, while Jimmie, who is pretty steady on his feet, could hold on as he toddled along and even share the ride with his brother when he got tired.

For some time now Robert has been ill. He must be in the fresh air as much as possible.

In her perplexity, Mrs. McFarland wrote to the Boston Evening American thinking that paper might help her to recover the lost carriage.

DR. ELIOT RANKS EMERSON IN 10 GREATEST

Concord Philosopher Is Lone American to Win Harvard Educator's Recognition

Ralph Waldo Emerson, minister, poet and philosopher of Boston and Concord, is the lone American on a list of the ten greatest men in the educational history of the last 2,300 years, selected by Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University.

They are Horace Mann, Massachusetts legislator and lawyer, who forsook a promising political career and lucrative law practice to devote his life to improving the public school system of education; and William Ellery Channing, Boston preacher, pioneer and leader in Unitarianism.

Emerson is named by Dr. Eliot as the greatest educator this country has produced. Two other Americans, both of them New Englanders who spent their lives in Boston, are on Dr. Eliot's list as the ten greatest in the educational history of the last 200 years.

ELIOT SELECTIONS.

Dr. Eliot's selection of the ten greatest of the last 200 years are Adam Smith, Michael Faraday, John Stuart Mill, William Ellery Channing, Horace Mann, Herbert Spencer, Ernest Renan, Charles Darwin, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Louis Pasteur.

His ten greatest in the last 2300 years are Aristotle, Galen, Leonardo da Vinci, Milton, Shakespeare, John Locke, Immanuel Kant, Francis Bacon, Isaac Newton, Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Emerson, whose philosophy was once scoffed at by learned Harvard professors, who called his writing unintelligible, is the only American to "make" both lists.

Who are these men?

Adam Smith: Scottish economist, professor, philosopher and author, 1723-1790. Wrote "The Wealth of Nations," considered the foundation for the modern science of political economy.

Michael Faraday: English electrochemical scientist, 1791-1867. By his discoveries and experiments, he set down for future generations some of the fundamental laws of electricity.

NOTED LOGICIAN.

John Stuart Mill: English social and political reformer, philosopher and economist, 1806-1873. He began the study of Greek at the age of three, Latin at seven and before twelve studied algebra and calculus. Described the methods of logical reasoning and induction.

William Ellery Channing: American Unitarian clergyman, 1780-1842. A fearless preacher, writer and opponent of negro slavery. Pastor of the Federal Street Church, now the Arlington Street Church in Boston.

Horace Mann: American educator, born at Franklin, Mass., 1796, died 1859. Lawyer in Dedham and Boston, State Representative and Senator. Regardless of personal profit, he spent his life improving American educational systems.

Herbert Spencer: English philosopher and believer in evolution, 1820-1903.

Ernest Renan: French historian, philosopher, dramatist and essayist, 1823-1892. Studied for the priesthood but became a student of Hebrew, Arabic and Syriac languages, wrote on Christianity and fell into difficulties because of expressions Unitarian in character.

Charles Robert Darwin: English naturalist, 1809-1882, whose book on evolution, "The Origin of the Species," explaining in full the science of evolution, revolutionized biological science.

LONE AMERICAN.

STICKING TO IT AIDS X-WORD PUZZLERS

"I have not abandoned hope of becoming the female Nurmi of the crossword world," writes a Boston Evening American Weekly Crossword Puzzle Contest fan.

Failure to carry off the $100 capital prize or any of the other grand awards has not relegated her to the heap of has-beens. Instead, it has spurred her to renewed effort. Hers is the spirit of never say die, and the sort that conquers in the end. Today's puzzle is the third of the fourth weekly series. If you haven't been among the six-day sprinters here's your chance to strut into line. Get a copy of yesterday's and Monday's papers and start right in. It isn't too late.

Don't let a novelty of puzzle creation, such as appeared in one or two of the checkboards last week, throw you off the track. There are no set of iron-bound laws governing the creation of crossword puzzles and don't let the absence of a more black space cast a black cloud over your cerebral corrugations.

A clever novelty in the way of crossword puzzle creations is coming your way Saturday. Look out for it. But keep at each checkerboard as it appears from day to day until then.

Still the same prizes: $100 for the ace; $50 for second spot, and $25 for third, with a string of fifteen $5 ones.

Resolve to see the game through to the end. Make this your profitable week; heaps of good fun, a wealth of novel information and mental development, and an attractive bankroll.

Six puzzles for the week, winding up Saturday; solutions in the hands of the Weekly Puzzle Editor by Wednesday night, and the posting of the winners Saturday. The only additional requirement is that letter of not over 200 words giving your idea of what constitutes an ideal crossword puzzle.

ASKS PROBE OF JUMP IN PRICE OF GASOLINE

Seven-Cent Boost in the Past Month Is Scored by Senator Hennessey

Increases of seven cents a gallon in the price of gasoline since the middle of January were today characterized by Senator William J. Hennessey of Dorchester as "an example of the strong-arm methods being used by large producers to exact exorbitant prices from the public."

Hennessey introduced a resolve under which the Commission on the Necessaries of Life would be directed to obtain all available information on the survey which the Federal Oil Conservation Board is making into the conservation of crude oil and the leasing of public lands.

What Hennessey particularly wants to know is the effect curtailed production will have on the price and supply of gasoline and oil in Massachusetts.

"If the board contemplates regulating the supply, then it should also regulate the price," he declared.

The importance of the subject, he pointed out, is apparent when it is realized that Massachusetts consumed 300,000,000 gallons of gasoline in 1924 at an average cost of 20 cents a gallon.

LIVES OF GREAT MEN OFT REMIND US OF THE opportunities afforded the ambitious in this land of achievements. They demonstrate conclusively that poverty and lack of education in early youth constitute no insurmountable obstacles to those determined to succeed.

On this occasion, the anniversary of the birth of the Great Liberator, it is peculiarly fitting to refer to the opportunities offered any boy to climb the ladder of success. For the life of the present chief executive of the United States is similar in some respects to that of Lincoln. Both rose from humble circumstances to be head of the greatest nation tion in the world. Lincoln went from a log cabin to the White House, and Coolidge from a modest dwelling in a New England country village to the same edifice. Who knows but that some poor boy from Vermont or Maine, who today studies this picture, may some day be a successor of Lincoln and Coolidge?

ZIVIC CHARGES TIPLITZ RAN FEARING K. O.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 11.—The Gazette-Times prints this morning: "Truth, like murder, will out. A certain young gentleman who was with Jack Zivic, the 'Lawrenceville hearse' and his party in Boston last week returned to this city today and spilled a nice story. The uncle of a man why Joe Tiplitz ran out of the boat with Zivic in the Bean City. Translated into print, the story follows.

"After Zivic and Tiplitz had weighed in at 2 o'clock (or after the time of the scheduled ten-round engagement, Zivic retired to the room at the hotel for the contestants and before the bell sounded for the fighting there was a knock at Jack's door and when he rose to enter who should walk in but Tiplitz himself.

"He's Jack," says Joe.

"Hide yourself," replies Jack.

"I've got down to business he says Tiplitz without any further preliminaries.

"What do you mean business?" queries the Lawrence Zivic.

"Well if I fight you on the level tonight you'll knock me out sure," says Joe.

"That suits me" grins Zivic.

"But it don't suit me" says Tiplitz "and I'm here to ask you to carry me along for the ten rounds.

"I never do anything like that, Jack shrieks back "or I'll have to send my manager, Jimmy Brogan. Now get out while I sleep.

And so Tiplitz hunted up Bronson and put the proposition to him.

"I'll fade to carry me along, will you, Jim?"

Whereupon Bronson is alleged to have replied, "Get out before I kick you out, or words to that effect.

At any rate, Tiplitz went. Not only did he go, but he didn't come back and at last reports was heading for his native heath of Philadelphia, the excuse that there wasn't enough money in the house was simply that—an excuse

MUNN DEFENDS TITLE AGAINST STAN ZBYSZKO

Kansas City, Feb. 11 Wash[illegible] Ig[illegible] Munn will defend his wo[illegible] [illegible] wrestling [illegible] ship for the first time in [illegible] match here tonight with Stanislaus Zbyszko, veteran Polish grappler and former champion.

Zbyszko, although [illegible] strongest and craftiest men in the [illegible] game.

Munn's shooting will go far toward establishing his claim as a wrestler who has been a source of controversy since he took the title from Ed [illegible] La Baere [illegible] Lewis by [illegible] decision.

Lewis still retains the title and has obligated himself to [illegible] matches [illegible] Munn from being acclaimed champion.

YUSKO FAVORITE IN BOUT WITH STASIAK

Frank Yusko, youthful Lithuanian heavyweight wrestler, has been installed as favorite for his fistic encounter with Stanley Stasiak, veteran Polish grappler, which will be staged at the Grand Opera House tomorrow night. With the exception of Wayne Bay Miller, one of the star wrestlers Frank Yusko has been the outstanding wrestling star of the year. His wins over Stasiak and Joe Malcewicz stand high as one of the headliners in the mat game.

The semi-final bout will bring together Joe Malcewicz and Stanislaus Skorsky, the two men who recently gave Yusko an interesting tussle.

NORA LEE

A Story of Flaming Youth

Heart and Soul of 1924 Flapper Laid Bare in Best Story by Author of "Chickie"

START THE STORY HERE TODAY

Margaret Meadows married Will Lee at seventeen. His dissolute habits soon made her miserable. The night he raised his hand to his 10 year old child in a drunken rage she slipped from his home with her baby. Margaret supported her daughter by teaching school in several villages, finally settling in Fairdale, where she met Andrew and they fell in love. But he was tied to an invalid wife and Margaret refused to let him leave her. Nora, at seventeen, fell in love with Dale Herrick. Andrew was killed in an auto accident. Nora met Maxwell Reed, who made love to her. Margaret died and Nora was left alone. She plunged into a fast set of flappers. Dane upbraided her for her association with Max

Throughout fifty-five years of achievement in the making of wholesome, nourishing foods, the name Heinz has come to be more than a designation.

It has come to mean a standard of quality, and as such is our greatest asset, to be safeguarded at all times, at all costs.

Every individual package is the gauge of the other millions of packages of Heinz 57 Varieties of Pure Food Products made for world consumption.

There must never be the least deviation in quality. To slight one would be to belittle all.

Therefore the label goes on last. It is our own stamp of approval and your assurance that your money could buy nothing better.

Of all the things we make there is no Variety that is better known than Heinz Tomato Ketchup. It is different—it is better—it is the best that can be made.

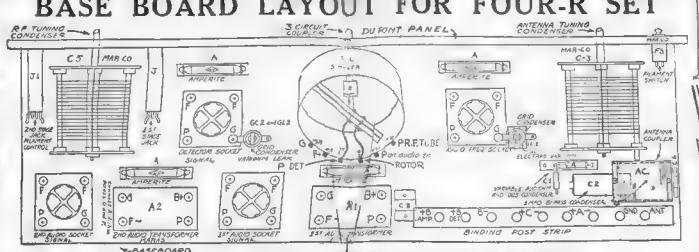
BASE BOARD LAYOUT FOR FOUR-R SET



BASEBOARD

By W. A. SIMMONS
Technical Radio Editor

After my base drilled your panel and mounted the various parts behind the panel as the base board. You are then ready to make the connections shown in the base board above. The various parts should be mounted in the positions shown in layout as this is essential to proper wiring of the set.

The first part to be mounted will be the two Amperite sockets. These are held to the base board by two screws in front of the two Amperite sockets. Next the two fixed condensers are mounted on the base board. These condensers are marked C3 and C5 on the diagram. Next the Amperite sockets are mounted in the back of the panel. Next the two variable condensers are mounted on the base board. Next the two Amperite sockets are mounted on the base board. Next the two fixed condensers are mounted on the base board

Madame's philosophy [illegible] the belief that neither man nor woman was made to live alone. Madame watched silently, determined to help all she could [illegible] signs of mutual understanding between this interesting couple.

Mr. Hampton seemed very kind, but that was strictly all. Priscilla on the other hand, fairly glowed in his presence. Occasionally they went to the movies together, or played a game of chess. But there

"Priscilla's hurt, surprised [illegible] had come back to claim her. [illegible] Madame Bachi offered advice [illegible] to accept but further [illegible] Mr. Hampton [illegible] off for time to [illegible] an evening [illegible] telephone call [illegible]

Two weeks later, Madame waited for a proposal a moment and asked [illegible] if he would step into [illegible] and there in the dim [illegible] Mr. Hampton asked Priscilla to be his wife. [illegible] turned to him, grave [illegible] upon her cheeks [illegible] head for years to [illegible] while she said no, that she [illegible] she loved Peter. It was [illegible] a sad, a fatal mistake in her [illegible] Peter who said [illegible] the girl has told you something of her affair. It [illegible] she and the man were [illegible] hearts in their youth. They quarreled and she broke the engagement. Then he made a most unfortunate [illegible] Realizing [illegible] she, fearing [illegible] now to make up for the past. That's her notion of loyalty, but it's wrong—don't you think it's wrong? She's too fine—too wonderful, to sacrifice herself to a man she doesn't love."

Castles Tumbled

And then one night Priscilla's air-castles came tumbling down. Mr. Hampton brought a yellow-haired lady of florid complexion home to dinner. Her air of possession was unmistakable. Madame Rachminoff studied the group carefully. Prissy gamely chatted with her typical across the table. When Madame returned to [illegible] of her own chamber, she checked over some mental notes. They ran like this:

Engagement Known

Excitement ran riot when the amazing news of Priscilla's engagement became known. It was indescribable, unbelievable. This [illegible] herself engaged! But Prissy carried the hoax through with the skill of an actress. An old sweetheart, she Stared in Amazement.

Mr. Hampton [illegible] What business was it of his? his eyes seemed to ask. Then Madame continued:

IF ALL'S FAIR IN WAR---

By Florence McIntyre

"I feel that some of her friends should intervene, while there is still time. Of course, you know how women resent advice from another woman. I wonder if you wouldn't drop a hint, say a word, perhaps, that would make her see things more clearly."

This it was that Priscilla Bartlett and George Hampton were thrown together in the bond of confidence. She confessed [illegible] And thereafter [illegible] on [illegible] deep down beyond [illegible] exterior into the [illegible] of the [illegible] Together [illegible] beautiful despite the [illegible] used to capture [illegible] And Hampton, having [illegible] Priscilla as [illegible] before, just natural [illegible]

Won Her Man

Prissy won her man, [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] young daughters [illegible] longed to mother.

Eventually at Mrs. Parmarlee's boarding house wished Mr. and Mrs. George Hampton [illegible] [illegible] new life when meant [illegible] the Hamptons and desire fulfilled for Priscilla.

For Children's Sake

Helping Hand Editor:

I have seven children, the oldest ten and youngest three weeks. I have been out of work for some time and can't seem to find anything. I am an experienced mechanic and chauffeur; also carry a second-class fireman's license. I hope someone will help me, as I am pretty much discouraged with all these months to feed and no work or coal to keep them warm. Will you please do what you can for my children's sake?

LOUIS P.

Other Needy Ones

Mrs. E. A. S., living in a one room camp, mile from village, greatly in need of Winter coat.

C. L. J., father of four children, out of work for several months. Would like work of some kind, such as auto repair man or chauffeur. Is out of coal, groceries and rent overdue.

Mary H. asks for warm clothing for sick boy laid up with rheumatism, age seventeen. Also for boys thirteen and seven and girls ten and six.

Mrs. M. W. 1, expecting the stork, would like some infant's clothes and some for a boy two years.

Mrs. Anna G., mother of six children, three girls, ten, three and 1½, boys nine, six and four, needs blouses, pants, etc., for the boys, dresses for the girls.

Ida M. would like clothes for boys seven and eight, shoes 10 and 12. Two motherless nephews living with her. Has aged father, mother, daughter and granddaughter to support, so cannot buy boys clothing. Also would like overcoat size 44 for man.

Mrs. Mary D., mother of three girls, eleven, nine and seven, and two boys, three and five, expects the stork next month and is in need of sheets, pillow cases and blankets.

Mrs. G. C. needs clothing for boys ten, seven and six and girl two. Husband out of work.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

ONE of the large touring bureaus is now advertising "Personally conducted honeymoons." This enables a bride and groom to devote all their time to spooning.

THEY don't have to be bothered with buying railroad tickets or checking baggage.

THEY get on the train and have nothing to worry about until they reach Niagara Falls.

THEY can spend the whole day hugging and kissing and knocking each others folks.

THEIR bride and groom never have to look at a time table because the manager of the trip figures out all the crossword puzzles.

THE newlyweds never know where they're going until they arrive.

AND then they don't know where they've been until after they've left.

WHEN they get back home they had to look over the postal cards in order to find out where they'd been.

HE thought they had gone to Colorado, but she was sure it had been Oregon.

THEY had to call up the touring bureau to get an idea of the things they'd seen.

ONE groom called up the agency to find out if his and his wife had visited California.

"The Acrobats of the Monkey Race"

By Foxy Grandpa

"THERE certainly are many beautiful and strange birds on this island, aren't there, Foxy Grandpa?" asked Bobby as we stood in a forest on the island of Sumatra.

"There are, indeed," I agreed, looking up into the tall trees.

"Look!" exclaimed Bobby. "I wonder what those big birds are up there?"

"Where?" I asked, trying to see the birds mentioned by Bobby.

"There—there goes one! You have to look quickly, for they just fly from limb to limb—right on the very tiptop," said the boy.

"Just a moment, Bobby," said I, unstrapping my binoculars, which I always carry along over my shoulder.

I took out my glasses and raised them to the high level of the tree tops.

"I can't make them out." I declared. "If one of them would just stay put for a moment I might identify him in my bird book."

"You'd have a hard time to do that," murmured Bunny, sitting up on his hind legs.

"And pray, why, my friend?" I asked, looking at my wise little rabbit, sitting there in judgment.

"You'll never find that fellow in a bird-book," he insisted.

"That's strange," I commented. "This particular volume is very complete and reliable."

"That may be—for birds," he answered, mysteriously.

"Hm," I grunted. "That's what I'm looking for—a bird." I said, raising my glasses once more.

"Then you'd look for a long time, I'm afraid," laughed Bunny, and he skipped away just to tease me.

"Here, Bobby," I said. "Your eyes are better than mine. You take a look through the glasses."

Bobby took the glasses and adjusted them to his eyes and then raised them to the highest branches of the trees. Then he gave a long "Oh!"

"Foxy Grandpa, look quickly, one of the birds is coming down here!"

Looking through the strong lenses I, too, soon saw that our friend perched up in the tree was a monkey—known as a Gibbon.

Then suddenly he turned his head and evidently decided to come down lower in the tree. He may have seen a nice, fat beetle, which he thought would be tasty. Well, at any rate, he came down and we got a fine view of him, for we were so quiet that he wouldn't have known we were anywhere near him.

"He hasn't got a tail," whispered Bobby. "I thought monkeys used their tails in climbing."

"Some do," I whispered back, "but look at that fellow's big thumb on his hind foot. It would be just like having four pairs of hands to climb with."

Bobby looked intently at the ape, for Gibbons are small apes about two and a half feet high—until I thought his little eyes would pop right out of his head.

Then off leaped the Gibbon and was soon lost in the foliage.

"Feel like that would come in handy for an acrobat, wouldn't they?" asked Bobby, who has ambitions in that direction.

"Pretty handy would," I answered. "As a matter of fact, these Gibbons are called the 'acrobats of the monkey race.'"

Loosen Up That Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all the advantages of grandmother's mustard plaster WITHOUT the blister. You just apply it with the fingers. First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then comes a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and flu.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Man Could Not Eat Stomach Full Of Gas

Everything He Ate Caused Stomach to Bloat Until He Takes Adlerika

"I could not eat anything without my stomach bloating or swelling up. Now I can eat anything. Adlerika is the best stomach medicine I ever saw." (Signed) R. T. Carruthers

Intestinal Evacuant

There is now offered to the public a liquid preparation which is not only a wonderfully effective and QUICK intestinal evacuant, but which also seems to stimulate the glands of the intestinal tract and aid the expulsion of flatus (GAS). This preparation, known as Adlerika, is a combination of many of the best carminative agents for the purpose of relieving the bowels of most all of the poisons that have been in the system a long time and which, when long retained, have been unable to disdodge. It further stimulates the great amount of matter Adlerika draws from the intestinal canal—even right after a natural evacuation—sometimes brings out unsuspected quantities of additional matter. Many times it brings out much GAS, thus relieving pressure on the abdomen. Adlerika is especially valuable when PROMPT action is necessary or to encourage the elimination of intestinal poisons through the bowel.

In slight disorders such as occasional constipation or gas on the stomach and headache (when the cause is a slight accumulation of poisons) Adlerika often produces surprising and gratifying results. In some cases of chronic constipation, stomach trouble, or Adlerika may not bring relief. In this case consult a physician or a reputable physician should be secured.

Reports from Physicians

"I congratulate you on the good effect from Adlerika, since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. A. Hamilton.

"Adlerika is the best in my entire 32 years experience." (Signed) Dr. G. Eggers.

"Successful results Adlerika with highly satisfactory results. (signed) Dr. A. Schmidt.

"I can't get along without Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. W. B. Merchant.

Dr. E. Puckett is user of Adlerika; writes: "Adlerika is highly satisfactory, better than for 28 years. Haven't language to express the impurities eliminated from my system."

Adlerika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach evacuants because of its REAL and QUICK action. Sold by leading druggists everywhere.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Your cost of living promises not to go much higher.

The prices received by the American farmer for what he sells now equal the prices he has to pay for the things he buys.

As a matter of fact, if it hadn't been for the great rise in agricultural prices, the cost of living would be going down rather than up.

Everyone last year sympathized with the plight of farmers who were selling their products at poor prices. Everyone applauded when agricultural prices began to advance. But when wheat soars above $2, and other gains also rise very sharply, then wage earners and others not living off farmers are likely to put themselves more than the farmer for an increase in the price of bread makes quite a dent in the modest pay envelopes of many families.

* * *

From the broader point of view it would be best if agricultural prices did not keep on rising, for they would then be out of line with prices of other things and would cause an increase in the cost of living. This, in turn, naturally would incite demands for higher wages, and the only way such demands would be met would be by marking up prices — or by forcing the wage demands and thus precipitating unsettlement and perhaps demoralization.

Assuming, however, that both wages and prices were raised, what then?

For one thing, money would tend to become dearer. This would have a depressing effect upon securities, and any serious drop in the stock market would probably have a bad effect upon business sentiment and upon business. This would lead, among other things, to unemployment and to hardships.

Not only so, but, not least important, soaring prices here would play into the hands of foreign competitors. This is exactly what European industrial nations are hoping and praying will occur here. If the United States would only embark upon a period of price inflation, then our foreign rivals in the markets of the world would be able to underbid us.

Also inflation here would cut down European and other foreign purchasers of American goods and would stimulate exports from these countries to this country.

Is further skyrocketing of wheat and other grain prices likely?

One man's guess may be as good as another's. My own feeling is that the world will not buy very much of our wheat at better than $2 a bushel.

EMPLOYES BUY STOCKS OF CARRIERS

BY FRANK E. MELOON.
Financial Editor.

Employes on a number of the better American railroads are buying stock in the carriers for which they work. Special plans are made for their benefit. Lists of stock or bonds. Obviously it is a good time to invest, and it will be good when we see the day that it can be extended to New England rails, now working back toward an investment position.

F. E. Crowley

On the New York Central, under the plan evolved by President F. E. Crowley, who has taken the reins in an energetic manner since his comparatively recent election, more than 31,000 employes have bought stock to the amount of 98,900 shares.

"Stabilization of production and prices marks a new phase in the petroleum industry of this country," says Frank D. Gibson, president of the Gibson Oil Corporation. Mr. Gibson is a prominent mid-continent operator. "The oil business directly benefits by this closer control over output and prices because of more economical operations while the public gains through a better product and service because of increased efficiency within the industry itself.

"This is the strongest factor in the oil situation. That the oil industry has demonstrated its ability to anticipate its own needs without government regulation is important to American business. The troubles of the past few years have been surmounted and the industry's future is exceptionally bright, because oil leaders recognize the necessity of better and more efficient private control if public regulation is to be avoided.

"Higher prices this Spring are inevitable because supply and demand position an upward trend. The situation is sound and the entire oil business is on a sounder basis than any time since petroleum became one of the major industries."

The slight increase in building cost shown by the figures for January is not to be taken as the beginning of a general rise, according to the interpretation placed upon the statistics by Alfred S. Kaufman, of the General Contractors of America.

In a statement issued today, it was pointed out that the slight increase noted during the past month was due to a minor advance in labor rates and material prices in a few cities. The average cost of construction in the principal building centres of the country was one point during January to reach the index number 202.

The volume of construction in January, as indicated by the movement of materials, dropped thirty-five points below the index figure of 185 for the preceding month, due to a cold-weather slackening of operations. This decline is not believed to forecast any significant curtailment of construction during the coming year. The total volume of 1924 was the greatest on record, being four per cent. more than that of 1923, which in turn was sixty-three per cent. higher than that of 1913.

Though awards of building contracts in a group of twenty-seven northeastern states fell in their total to some thirty points below the figure for the two preceding months, a study of the general trend indicates the probability of continued high activity during 1925. This same indication is carried by totals of building permits issued in twenty cities.

WHEAT SELLS HIGHER AFTER A SLOW START

Wheat took a decided upward swing in Chicago after a hesitating start. Strength in Liverpool and Buenos Aires encouraged buying. The opening, which ranged from 1⅝ cents lower to ¼ cent advance, May, $1.83⅜ to 1.84⅝, and July, $1.68 to 1.68¼, was followed by material gains, with May rising to $1.86. Corn, opening at ¼ to 1¼c lower, May $1.29 to 1.29⅝, soon advanced.

BUCKLAND WILL TALK ON LOAN

The story of how the New Haven Railroad has recently completed the refinancing of its $23,000,000 European loan which matures on April 1, without payment of any underwriting charges or the usual commissions, through the co-operation of the industrial and other business interests in its territory, will be told at a luncheon meeting at the Boston Chamber of Commerce next Friday noon at 12:20.

On the invitation of a Boston committee, E. G. Buckland, financial vice-president of the New Haven, will address a gathering of manufacturers at that time.

Members of the committee stated that interest in the refinancing bonds have already been received from a considerable number of Massachusetts industries, while reports from the financial districts of New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago are to the effect that the novel plan of refinancing the New Haven by enlisting the interest of the industries served by its lines is attracting much attention and that already a number of other railroads are contemplating similar procedures with respect to their borrowing requirements.

Wall St. Gossip

CINCINNATI NORTHERN R. R. "Big Four" subsidiary, declared $2 semi-annual dividend, payable March 21, covering unspecified period; per cent. semi-annually has been paid.

AT MEETING of Atlantic Refining directors it was decided to pass the common dividend usually paid March 15. No dividend has been paid on common since last June.

FOUNDATION CO. declared quarterly dividend of $2 on common stock and regular quarterly of 1¾ on preferred. Foundation common has been paying $8 annually.

AMERICAN SUGAR Refining declared regular quarterly $1.75 preferred dividend, payable March 2. No action was taken on common.

ROCK ISLAND Lines in first seven days of February handled 31,622 revenue cars, against 26,562 in the same period in January and 29,238 last year.

INTERNATIONAL TELEPHONE authorized stock increased to $50,000,000 from $25,000,000.

FEDERAL MOTOR Truck balance after federal tax reported $3.13 a share in 1924, against $4.86 a share in 1923.

ALLIED CHEMICAL and Dye is now talked of for increase in dividend to a $5 rate.

DRYGOODS MEN TO PICK H. J. TILY AS PRESIDENT

New York, Feb. 11.—Delegates to the fourteenth annual convention of the National Retail Dry goods Association, now in session at Hotel Pennsylvania, passed a resolution requesting that the board of directors select Acting President Herbert J. Tily of Philadelphia as the next president. The election will be held at the annual banquet tomorrow night.

Mr. Tily, Richard F. Grant, president of the United States Rubber Company, New York banker; Louis E. Kirstein of William Filene's Sons Company, Boston, and E. R. Dibrell, New York banker, are the principal speakers at the two sessions.

NEW CURB HEAD BEGAN CAREER AT $6 A WEEK

New York, Feb. 11.—Having begun in Wall street career at the age of sixteen as office boy at $6 a week David U. Page at the age of forty-one is to be president of the New York curb market.

His election is favored by the governors and no opposition is expected. He became a broker at the age of twenty-one, when the curb market was outdoors and for two years has been vice-president of the exchange, now indoors.

$2,500,000 FOR DURANT IN TWO DAYS

New York, Feb. 11.—William C. Durant, motor manufacturer and stock operator, is credited by Wall street with having made about $2,500,000 during the last two days in the case of U. S. Cast Iron Pipe. His paper profits on the same stock in the upward movement since 1923 are estimated at more than $10,000,000.

The stock's gyrations skyward in the last few days have been considered a notice-by Durant, by way of the stock ticker that he is back from his vacation in Cuba. Durant friends described him as "more bullish than ever" following his vacation.

Last week United States Cast Iron Pipe gained 15¾ points. Monday it shot up 19¾ points. Yesterday it soared 31¾ points higher. Thus it has risen almost perpendicularly from $150 a share to its closing price last night of $235.50.

The display of pyrotechnics this stock has given rise to rumors that there is a "corner" in it, but stock exchange authorities and brokers familiar with the stock deny this.

The same stock that has added sensationally to the earnings of Durant has during the last few months cost the bear party on the Stock Exchange a considerable sum. Individual bears have bucked the market almost daily and usually had to cover at a loss, being outguessed by the operator.

He is credited with not only holding about one-half of the capital stock in his own hands, but also with being able to locate almost every other share of the entire capital.

Durant is said to have been attracted to Cast Iron Pipe in 1923. The stock in that year sold as low as $100 a share and as high as $250. In 1924 its low was $64 and the high $169¾. Mr. Durant's original accumulations are said to average about $60 a share.

Cast Iron Pipe Up Over 14 Points in New York

U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, the skyrocket performer of the New York Stock Exchange, shot up 14½ points from Tuesday's close in early transactions today. American Sumatra jumped 3 and Worthington over 3. American Can and United Fruit Pipe were up over a point. In Boston trading Bingham Mines absorbed profit-taking.

For 1924 New England Company Power System earned $73,839 after preferred dividends, equal to $5.23 a share on 71,500 shares, against $218,854 in 1923, or $5.03 a share on 64,333 shares.

BOSTON AMERICAN

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

New England, like Old England, raises little of the raw materials she uses and is almost wholly dependent upon transportation. Here, as in the Old Country, skilled labor is a great asset.

This Boston gateway, finest natural harbor on the Atlantic Coast, is in severe and unceasing competition with Baltimore, Philadelphia and Norfolk for the overseas business of the important Middle West.

'Ship From Boston!' and 'Sail From Boston!' Bay State Minute Men Revive the Slogans

ONE OF THE most hopeful things about the Port of Boston is that so many good Bostonians are zealous in its interest, alert in its defence.

There probably is no such tense struggle in America, aside, perhaps, from the annual contest between the best team in the American League and the best nine in the National organization, as the commercial struggle between the North Atlantic ports for the domestic trade of the American interior.

Only New York, among all these ports, is actually embarrassed by the freight that SEEKS its port. Baltimore, Philadelphia, Norfolk, Montreal and Boston are engaged in a constant struggle for more business.

Almost at the top of the list in the matter of imports, Boston is close to the bottom in exports.

Within 50 miles of the State House dome there are 3,000,000 people, or more than the entire population of Denmark or Norway. They make boots and shoes, electrical machinery, rubber goods, machine-shop products, confectionery, clothing, woolen, worsted and knit goods, bakery products.

New England MUST go outside for her material. She does not raise food enough to feed her people. She produces no coal and few of the raw materials she manufactures. Producing little wool these six States, nevertheless, sell woolen clothing to the wool-growers of Ohio; raising no cotton, we dispose of fine cotton goods in the mill cities of the South; producing no leather, we ship boots and shoes to Texas!

This ought to mean no end of commerce, one would imagine, but the fact is that while our exports are high in value they are small in bulk. They do not FILL ships. To do that, the Port of Boston needs grain and grain products, provisions, tobacco, cotton, agricultural implements and the like, and in the effort to secure such business we find ourselves in keen competition with Norfolk, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

We have the largest dry dock in the world. This is the biggest fish port in North or South America, rivalling Grimsby, England, as the greatest in all the world. Boston, again, is the leading market for hides and skins, and recognizes no rival except London as a wool market.

Philadelphia is 90 miles up the Delaware River; Baltimore a day's sail up Chesapeake Bay; Montreal, 1,000 miles up the St. Lawrence.

Boston is close to the open sea, Boston Light no more than one hour from our steamship piers, as against New York's two-hour run to Sandy Hook.

Almost on the open sea, again, Boston Harbor is perfectly protected by the islands of the lower bay, which form a natural breakwater.

Our harbor includes all the tidewater lying within a line from Point Allerton to Point Shirley, comprising an area of about 47 square miles, exclusive of the islands. The entrance between the two points is about 4¾ miles wide and the distance from the Point Allerton-Point Shirley line to the Charlestown Navy Yard, by way of the 35-foot channel, about 7½ miles.

Among our strong natural advantages is that of ocean distances, as indicated by this table:

	Distance to Liverpool (Nautical miles)	Boston's Advantage (Nautical miles)
Boston	2,862	—
Montreal	2,972	110
New York	3,056	194
Philadelphia	3,199	337
Baltimore	3,355	493

A weekly service between Boston and Liverpool could be maintained by a line of five ordinary freight steamers, in other words, while to carry a similar service between Baltimore and Liverpool would require a fleet of six such vessels.

Boston offers grain elevators of modern construction with a capacity of 2,500,000 bushels, large covered piers with railroad tracks on them, warehouses without end.

Our channel is 1,200 feet wide and 35 feet deep, at low water. New York, it is true, has 40 feet of water; Baltimore, Philadelphia and Montreal, only 30 feet.

Boston's natural advantages, however, have not been sufficient to produce the business, and authorities appear to be agreed that the main difficulty—so far as sea-going freight traffic from the West is concerned—lies in the "differential," or lower export and import rates, originally accorded to Philadelphia and Baltimore and later appropriated by Norfolk, Newport News, Montreal and other ports.

On the principle that cost and distance must be taken into account, Philadelphia and Baltimore, being nearer the West, a great many years ago were permitted to make a rate from points west of Buffalo and Pittsburgh of 2 cents per 100 lbs., or 40 cents the ton, lower than the rate from the same points to New York.

New York, the giant, went calmly ahead, her port growing more and more important; but for rate-making purposes Boston is grouped with New York—and Boston suffered.

A rate war in the Middle Western country ended with a resort to arbitration and out of that arbitration came Baltimore with a differential of 3 cents, and Philadelphia with a rate of 2 cents, below the New York (Boston) rate on export traffic. These differentials were reaffirmed by the Interstate Commerce Commission in 1898.

There was, for a great many years, and in fact until the World War, a way to offset them, to a large extent. That way was by lower WATER rates from Boston to Europe, the shipping masters taking into consideration such advantages as have been shown in the tables of distances.

Some time during the war, however, the United States—as represented by the Shipping Board—entered into a conference with Great Britain and some of the countries of Northern Europe, as a result of which Boston LOST this ocean differential and all the Atlantic ports north of Norfolk were placed on the same footing.

Within the past few days the United States Shipping Board has adopted a resolution to the effect that the action of the conference in imposing these water differentials should be repealed and the ocean differentials abolished. The other parties at interest have yet to take similar action, but observers believe they see some of the discrimination against the Port of Boston about to be removed, and they are, in consequence, hopeful of speedy improvement.

As for the railroad differential, Boston never has agreed that it is just or equitable. More than a year and a half ago, indeed, some fifty or more representative New Englanders, marshalled by the energetic Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, journeyed to Washington to give utterance to Boston's opposition before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In November, last, again, a delegation from the Maritime Association of the Chamber of Commerce appeared at Washington before the Shipping Board, to urge here that:

"If rates are to be predicated mainly on cost, then the New England ports insist that their greater proximity to the European ports be reflected in the ocean rate . . . Inasmuch as both the rail rates and the ocean rates are to a large extent in the control of agencies of the Federal Government, we feel justified in insisting that a uniform and consistent Federal policy be adopted."

And, as was said in the beginning, the Port is fortunate in that so many Bostonians are alert in its behalf.

Almost the first official act of the new Senator from Massachusetts was to introduce a bill eliminating the so-called "port differentials" in rail rates. Says Senator Butler:

"One of the unfortunate effects of the port differentials is to compel shippers to route their freight through certain favored ports.

"This is injuring the New England ports, the South Atlantic ports, and the Gulf ports, but it is also injuring the Western shippers. Certain Western trade associations have adopted resolutions in support of the equalization of the through charges via the several ports, which is one of the objects of my bill. The port differentials are particularly burdensome to the New England ports. In a joint report of the Shipping Board and the Secretary of War it was recently found that Boston is merely a 'port of call.' They attributed Boston's decline to the so-called differentials in rail rates."

What Senator Butler aims at is not discrimination in favor of Boston, at the expense of another port—as Boston has been discriminated against—but a fair field and no favors.

The New England ports ask for no advantage over any other ports. In spite of their own marked advantage in geographical location, they seek only an equality. The anomalous situation now existing, whereby the ports most favorably located are handicapped by unfair rate disadvantages, cannot continue.

Senator Butler's position in the Republican national organization, and his intimate association with President Coolidge, give his bill special importance. Mr. Coolidge, while naturally he will not favor one section of the country at the expense of another, IS a New England man and deeply interested in all the problems of New England. Those closely in touch with affairs at the capital feel certain, they say, that the square deal is about to be given, at last, to the Port of Boston.

Other champions of the Port went to the State House, on Monday of the present week, to appear before one of the committees of the Legislature in favor of Representative Luke D. Mullen's bill, establishing a "FREE port" in Boston Harbor.

A "free" port, Mr. Frank Davis of the Maritime Association of the Chamber of Commerce explained, is an enclosed reservation to which raw materials can be brought from abroad and where they may be held without payment of duty until they are taken away.

Mr. Davis described the prosperity which has come to Hamburg and certain other cities of Europe by the establishment of these free zones.

"All the other seaports up and down the Atlantic Coast," he said, "are going after business. The Commonwealth has an investment of $20,000,000 in Boston Harbor. The Department of Public Works is administering it well, but the port is NOT being 'sold.'"

Speaking for Mayor Curley, who has taken every possible occasion to stress the importance of a united and an intelligent New England interest in the New England ports, Mr. Joseph Smith declared the Mayor's belief that the establishment of such a free port will "restore Boston to her old place among the greatest maritime cities of the world."

Boston is much nearer than New Orleans or Galveston to Rio de Janeiro, somewhat nearer than New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Boston is nearer to the Panama Canal than Los Angeles or San Francisco.

On its merits, because of its situation, because of its facilities, as well as by reason of its undisputed NATURAL advantages, the Port of Boston is entitled to a GREAT share of the Nation's foreign commerce.

If Senator Butler is successful, and backed by the sentiment of a united New England he is not likely to fail, Boston will be restored to an equal footing with her rivals.

THEN, it will be up to New England, up to each one of us, up to the modern Minute Man.

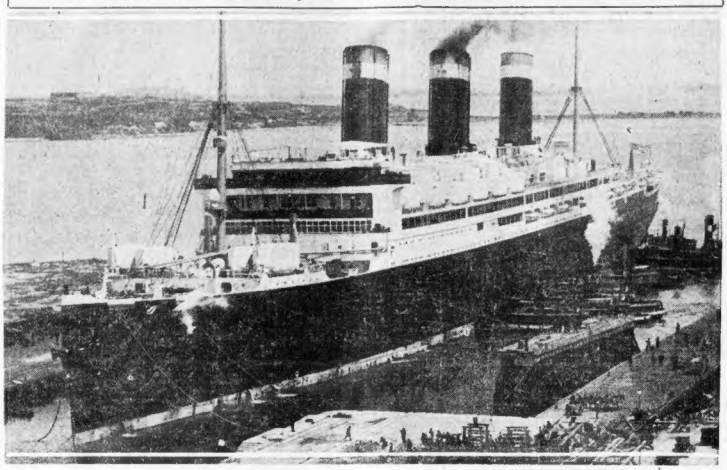
Meanwhile, there are two excellent slogans for every Minute Man. They were originated by the Boston Chamber of Commerce, but they are good for all. They come to mind whenever we find the names of a score or more of eminent Bostonians on the passenger list of a liner sailing from New York.

These are the slogans:

Sail from Boston!

Ship from Boston!

SEA'S GIANT BABY; WORLD'S BIGGEST CRADLE



The present visit of the steamship Leviathan, queen of the American merchant marine, again directs attention to one of Boston's most valuable possessions, the largest dry dock in America. The Leviathan is expected to be with us for another week, when she will return to New York to resume her trans-Atlantic service on the last day of February.

Boston Dry Dock is properly "Boston Navy Yard Dock No. 3." It has an overall length of 1,204 feet, a bottom width of 114.75 feet and a depth on the sill, at mean high water, of 43 feet 10 inches. A movable caisson permits the use of half the dock only, if desired.

This dock was constructed by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and was sold to the United States in June, 1919, with adjacent land containing 4,396,480 square feet, for the sum of $4,158,385.58.

At the United States Army Supply Base, near at hand, there is well over a mile of berthing space, capable of accommodating nine or ten ocean-going steamers. Built during the war, this Army Base, second in size in the United States, is likely to be turned over to commercial uses. The main structure, an 8-story building, is 1,638 feet long and 126 feet wide, with a total floor area of nearly 40 acres.

Commonwealth Pier No. 5, the biggest and best passenger and freight pier in the world, has a frontage of 400 feet on the main ship channel with two slips each 1,200 feet long and 40 feet of water throughout its length. Completed in 1913, this pier cost $3,500,000. It is situated in the heart of the wool district, greatest wool market in the world, and only a short distance from the boot and shoe district, another industry in which Boston takes a leading place.
